

ENERGY CRISIS CAUSES CRISIS—The energy crisis may have indirectly contributed to the fire which destroyed this mobile home at Miller Trailer Court on Shepherd Road. Mrs. and Mrs. Richard Meadows Jr., the owners, were using electrical space heaters to conserve propane gas. The fire was believed started by an overloaded electrical circuit.

$10,000 Fire Leaves Young Couple Homeless

A $10,000 fire early today left a young northern Pickaway County couple homeless and without household possessions.

Circleville Fire Chief Bernard Wolfe, Harrison Twp. Fire Chief Rolland Featheringham and Sheriff Dwight Radcliff today cautioned all homeowners to have their house wiring checked before using electrical space heaters.

Most homes are not adequately wired to safely carry the increased electrical load demanded by the heaters. They especially cautioned homeowners not to use heavier than 15 watt fuses on regular household circuits.

The mobile home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Meadows Jr. was destroyed by a blaze believed caused by an overloaded electrical circuit. They lived at Miller Trailer Court, Shepherd Road, one-half mile east of Route 23.

The fire was reported to the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department at 9:22 a.m. today. The Harrison Twp. Volunteer Fire Department was immediately notified and was on the scene less than 10 minutes after the fire was discovered.

By the time the firemen arrived, the interior of the trailer was beyond saving. Mrs. Meadows, 24, who is 4-months pregnant, was asleep in the rear bedroom of the mobile home when she was awakened by a popping and cracking noise according to Deputy Sheriff Bob Hoover.

She grabbed a robe and escaped the inferno through a rear door. The front room was engulfed by flames already.

The Meadows had been using electric space heaters to save gas because of the energy crisis. Deputy Hoover and Harrison Fire Chief Rolland Featheringham believe the blaze started when one of the electrical lines to the heaters overheated, igniting the mobile home's walls.

A camper truck belonging to the Meadows sustained extensive heat damage. It was parked close to the home.

Deputy Hoover said the mobile home was valued at $6,000. He stated he believed the total loss to the family would approach $10,000. The Meadows had fire insurance according to the deputy.

Until they can locate a new home, they will be staying with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Meadows Sr. who live in Hamilton Twp. near Columbus.

Japanese Blaze Kills 107 Persons

KUMAMOTO, Japan (AP) — At least 107 persons were killed and 100 injured today as fire raged out of control in a crowded seven-story department store, police said. Most of the victims were burned beyond recognition.

Officials said the dead included 31 women, but it was feared more victims would be found in the upper floors where firemen have been unable to go because of heavy poisonous smoke and fumes.

"It was like an inferno full of cries of fleeing mothers and children," said survivor Junko Nagai.

Another survivor, Masatoshi Tsuruta, said, "I was almost overwhelmed by smoke before reaching a window, from which I escaped by a ladder. I saw people falling down a staircase like an avalanche."

Witnesses said at one time there were about 100 people on the roof but most of them were rescued.

Ironically, when the fire broke out repair work was being done on fire fighting and other such equipment in the store, officials said.

Helicopters lifted off survivors who fled to the building's roof, and many others were saved by fire trucks that raised ladders to the upper floors. One woman with her child strapped to her back climbed down a rope to reach a ladder.

The fire was in the Taiyo department store, which is usually closed on Thursdays. But it was open today for crowds shopping already for the end-of-the-year holidays.

Some survivors said the fire broke out in the bedding section on the third floor, sending smoke and flames through the upper floors.

Among the numerous details yet to be decided by the commission is the site for the lottery headquarters. Several cities are competing.

The appointees, who will be paid $5,000 a year for their part time work, are:

—Louis S. Goldman, 45, a Dayton attorney and Democrat, whose term expires Nov. 20, 1975. He is a partner in the law firm of Goldman, Bogin, and Fox and president of Goldman Stores in Dayton.

—David F. Leahy, 64, Cleveland businessman and Republican whose term expires Nov. 20, 1977. He is northeast Ohio manager for Sears Roebuck & Co. and a past president of the Ohio Council of Retail Merchants.

Israeli and Egyptian ceasefire negotiators broke off their discussions today. The Egyptian representative said the situation was "very, very bad," and a U.N. spokesman said no further meetings were scheduled.

Machine-gun and mortar fire erupted about two miles from the site as Israeli Maj. Gen. Aharon Yariv and Egyptian Maj. Gen. Mohamed el-Garnasy met. The session was in the U.N. conference tent at Kilometer 101 on the Cairo-Suez road.

In New Delhi, Soviet Communist chief Leonid I. Brezhnev warned that unless Israel and the Arabs reach an early peace settlement, "a new and even more dangerous military explosion may occur in the Middle East at any moment."

"The hostile armies are confronting each other with their arms at the ready," Brezhnev told the Indian Parliament at the end of a four-day summit meeting with Prime Minister Indira Gandhi.

"It is clear that urgent measures must be taken to prevent new bloodshed and to establish a stable peace."

It was not known whether Brezhnev knew of the latest Middle East gunfire before he spoke.

Shells apparently fired by Egyptian mortars exploded within 20 yards of a U.N. peace force car that sped across the desert to stop the shooting, which lasted about 30 minutes. A U.N. spokesman at the conference site did not specify which side started the firing, but newsmen at the scene could see that both the Israelis and the Egyptians were shooting.

No casualties were reported, and it was assumed the negotiations were broken off because Egypt and Israel still could not agree on terms for the withdrawal of Israeli forces from the Suez Canal and the type of Egyptian forces that would be deployed along the east side of the waterway.

Yariv has proposed that both sides pull back to their prewar positions. Tel Aviv press reports say Cairo's latest proposal is for Israel to withdraw 80 miles and to return two-thirds of the Sinai Desert to Egypt, including major Israeli defense positions at the Mitla and Giddi passes.

But Egyptian President Anwar Sadat has vowed to keep Egyptian troops on the western bank of the Suez, and Israel would not agree to a one-sided withdrawal.

At a conference for the Cairo press Sadat questioned how a peace conference could be held in Geneva while "shooting is taking place daily, and Israel is resorting to procrastination in implementing the six-point cease-fire agreement."

Israel, Egypt, Syria and Jordan have been invited to a peace conference in Geneva next month. Sadat has warned that failure to fix cease-fire lines would torpedo the conference, but Wednesday he said that a preliminary conference will be held among foreign ministers.

A spokesman for the Israeli military command said that if the Kilometer

101 talks collapse fighting could erupt at any time. There have been almost daily skirmishes both on the Suez and the Syrian fronts despite the U.N. cease-fire and the Nov. 11 agreement.

The Israeli command said another Israeli soldier was killed by sniper fire on the Suez front Wednesday, the fourth to die since the Nov. 11 truce signing.

Israel is keeping all its military forces on high alert. The command said the alert would remain in force for at least three months. Sources said troops were rearming and training in airlifted American weapons.

Berger Board Of Governors Discusses Proposed Phase I

By SUE BOYER
Herald Staff Writer

The main topic for consideration of the Board of Governors of Berger Hospital at its regular monthly meeting Wednesday night was the upcoming presentation of the final plans for the new construction.

The presentation to the board has been delayed one month and will be done in January instead of the previously scheduled December meeting. Bids for the actual construction of the Phase I building project will go out within 60 days after board approval of the plans.

The building committee reported on its meeting with architect John Carmichael concerning the heating of the new structure. Justification was made for two boilers for the addition and a third for replacement of the old one now in use. Discussion was held on whether the auxiliary boiler should be electric. Carmichael estimated a cost of $15,000 to tie the two boiler systems together.

Fuel was a topic of conversation and it was reported that a unknown tank of fuel oil was recently discovered on the hospital grounds. The tank was full containing 6,000 gallons of oil and has been examined by Circleville Oil Company. The fuel is usable and was thought to have been purchased some 19 years ago.

Routine business before the board included the administrator's report which showed a profit for October of $10,000. John E. Reid also reported a 78 per cent occupancy for the month. The medical beds were full most of the time and obstetric approximately one half of the time.

The $7,500 pledge from PPG Industries was recognized. The pledge to come in two installments was designated to be used in Phase II of the building project.

Discussion was held on developing a type of memorial plaque to recognize donors to the hospital construction program.

Bills included liability insurance premiums. The board discussed the rise in the premiums in the past few years from $2,000 to $5,000 with no claims having been made. Buckeye Insurance handles the underwriting of the insurance plan and board members talked of perhaps obtaining a reduction by implementing a deductible insurance.

Another insurance company which specializes in hospital plans had sent material for consideration on a package deal combining liability, malpractice and boiler insurance. The company offers a price refund if no claims are made. As one of the oldest companies in the country specializing in hospital insurance, this company is endorsed by some 3,000 hospitals in 29 states.

Present policies are paid until Oct. 31, 1974, and the board made no decision as to whether the insurance should be changed. Local agents would still handle the program although the underwriting would be under different companies.

The Ohio Hospital Association made a request that each hospital designate one board member and one staff member to act in behalf of the hospital in correspondence concerning legislation. No members were appointed at the meeting but will be designated at a later date.

It was recommended by the Joint Commission on Hospital Accreditation that all outside laboratories used by Berger Hospital be approved by the board. The board listed these laboratories as University Hospital, Mt. Carmel, St. Anthony, Searle Research, Ohio State University, Ohio State, Bio-Science, and Davidson laboratories and approved the use of them.

Invitations to the board included the dedication of the Chillicothe Medical Center, Sunday, and a luncheon meeting in Columbus featuring Jack G. Brian speaking on hospital development.

Administrator Reid's report was concluded with the statement that this past year has been the most successful year in history concerning occupancy. The occupancy for October was an all-time high.

The cost per patient day is nearly the same as last year and the expenses are nearly equal to those a year ago. There has been no rate increase either. Reid is preparing documents for a rate increase of 2½ per cent if necessary after the first of the year. Controlling agencies take up to 90 days to clear any application for rate increase. Statistics show the last rate increase was in August of 1971.

Problems with staffing were discussed. Staff is lighter on weekends and the major problem noted was the lack of supervision in the nursing department. A full-time nurse is definitely needed for the 3-11:30 p.m. shift. Presently the staff is taking turns at this shift. Hopefully, three nurses will join the staff after the June graduation.

Kay O'Conner was employed recently to work in the obstetric department. At the time of her employment, the staff was down to one full-time registered nurse in this area.

House nursing is being implemented to allow all full-time nurses to be in charge at certain times. Every registered nurse will be required to work in at least two areas.

Dr. William Myers, head of the medical staff, reported on the recent crisis in the obstetric area concerning staffing. He proposed advance planning and overstaffing on weekends to alleviate the shortage problem. Myers stated that the reputation of the hospital depends on the people who work there.

The staff is presently in need of a radiologist and Reid said he hopes to have one soon. Pathology services may be shared with the hospital in Pike County. A meeting is planned to discuss the situation.

Reid said he was experimenting with four, eight, ten and 12 hour shifts to see if any of them would be more beneficial to both the hospital and the staff members.

Minor problems found with the dishwasher and pans were corrected the day after mention was made by the food inspector. These were the only two deficiencies cited at a recent inspection of the inspector.

Christmas presents for the staff were approved. The annual Christmas party held for hospital employees by the doctors will be Dec. 19 at Tink's. The Christmas tea will be held again this year.

A meeting is being planned with personnel members from local industries to discuss expectations of the hospital in regard to its service to industry. Reid, Dr. Myers and a board member will make up the committee from the hospital.

A report submitted to the board from the Executive Committee showed a total of 41 deliveries during October.

The meeting was concluded with recognition of Russ Palm who was recently reappointed to the board marking his 19th year of service.

U.N. Office Sees Bright Spots In Energy Pictures

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The lights in the halls of the U.N. headquarters are dimmed to save scarce electricity. But the offices where the world's energy picture is kept under constant scrutiny glow with hope for the future.

The oil famine in the West, brought on by Arab restrictions, is viewed here as more of a short-term political crisis than a long-term problem stemming from a real shortage.

A widely publicized Club of Rome treatise predicted that an expanding world economy would run out of oil in 47 years and coal in 122 years. But U.N. experts still stand by a 1972 U.N. report that the world's oil may last for more than 75 years and the coal supplies three or four times that long.

The U.N. experts say estimates of oil in the earth are on the increase and plenty of other energy sources still remain to be tapped or developed.

They make these arguments:

World demand for liquid fuels — mainly oil — is growing about 8 per cent per year, judging from the 1960-70 rate. But the estimates of oil reserves have been growing, too, from 7 billion tons in 1937 to 64 billion in 1950 and a trillion in 1970. The more opportunity oil men see for making money, the harder they look for oil.

An investment of $200 to $300 is needed to boost the capacity of Middle East oil wells by a barrel a day; a $2,000 investment will be needed for a barrel-a-day output of North Sea wells, expected to start producing in 1976. When the cost of bringing out oil reaches $5,000, it will equal the cost of producing from oil shales and tar sands, and production from those sources will become economically feasible. Tar sands are estimated to be twice as plentiful and oil shales 1,000 times as plentiful as the world's current oil well reserves.

The current oil shortage in the West will spur the search for other substitutes. Liquefaction and gasification of coal is one possibility but would take 10 to 20 years to become a significant energy source.

As for nuclear power, the electrical generating capacity of reactors using the fission of uranium nuclei increased almost 20 times in 10 years.

Senate OKs Bill On Saxbe

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $25,000-a-year pay cut to eliminate a constitutional snag to Sen. William B. Saxbe's appointment as attorney general appears headed for clear sailing in Congress.

The Constitution prohibits any member of Congress from taking a job for which Congress voted a pay increase during his term. And the Ohio Republican was among those who voted in 1969 to raise the salary of the attorney general and other Cabinet members to $60,000 a year from $35,000.

So, the Senate passed 75 to 16 Wednesday a bill reducing the attorney general's pay back to $35,000 while Saxbe holds the position — over a protest that it was making a mockery of the Constitution.

House Civil Service Chairman Thaddeus J. Dulski, D-N.Y., asked for House approval of the measure by early next week without holding hearings. He predicted overwhelming approval.

President Nixon has held up submitting Saxbe's nomination for Senate confirmation until the pay-reduction bill is passed.

Sens. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., and Robert Byrd, D-W. Va., fought the measure in the Senate Wednesday, with Ervin declaring it would make a mockery of the Constitution and Byrd calling it an indirect attempt to amend the Constitution.

"The constitutional prohibition against the appointment of Mr. Saxbe is complete, final, absolute and beyond remedy by legislation," Byrd said.

Lottery Panel To Hammer Out Procedures

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A five-member commission has been named to establish and run Ohio's first lottery, but sale of the first tickets is months away.

Gov. John J. Gilligan named three Democrats and two Republicans Wednesday from a list he said included "literally hundreds of Ohioans."

The legislature empowered the commission to work out all the details on the operation which is expected to pour upwards of $100 million a year into the state treasury.

Most of the funds are to be earmarked initially for payment of Ohio's recently approved $300 million Vietnam veterans' bonus.

Among the numerous details yet to be decided by the commission is the site for the lottery headquarters. Several cities are competing.

The appointees, who will be paid $5,000 a year for their part time work, are:

—Louis S. Goldman, 45, a Dayton attorney and Democrat, whose term expires Nov. 20, 1975. He is a partner in the law firm of Goldman, Bogin, and Fox and president of Goldman Stores in Dayton.

—David F. Leahy, 64, Cleveland businessman and Republican whose term expires Nov. 20, 1977. He is northeast Ohio manager for Sears Roebuck & Co. and a past president of the Ohio Council of Retail Merchants.

—Bernice MacKenzie, 68, of Canton, a Democrat whose term expires Nov. 20, 1977. She is a former member of Canton City Council and was a member of the Ohio House from 1959-1966.

—Richard S. Rust Jr., 55, Cincinnati insurance executive and a Republican whose term expires Nov. 20, 1974. He is vice president of the Union Central Life Insurance Co. and a graduate in law of the University of Cincinnati.

—Mary E. Yates, 43, a Democrat whose term expires Nov. 20, 1976. She is a former member of Cleveland City Council and a member of the planned parenthood organization of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Gilligan said in naming the members, whose appointments still must be confirmed by the Ohio Senate, that they have "the integrity, the ability, and the dedication to public service to assure Ohioans of an honest, well-managed state lottery operation."

At least eight states currently have a state lottery, and at least ten others are considering one. Most have been successful as state money makers.

There also have been big pay offs. In Massachusetts this week, a young bachelor won $1 million in that state's lottery.

The amount of the prizes and the frequency of drawings, along with where and by whom the tickets will be sold, are among the many details the commission will have to work out in

Senate OKs Bill On Saxbe

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $25,000-a-year pay cut to eliminate a constitutional snag to Sen. William B. Saxbe's appointment as attorney general appears headed for clear sailing in Congress.

The Constitution prohibits any member of Congress from taking a job for which Congress voted a pay increase during his term. And the Ohio Republican was among those who voted in 1969 to raise the salary of the attorney general and other Cabinet members to $60,000 a year from $35,000.

So, the Senate passed 75 to 16 Wednesday a bill reducing the attorney general's pay back to $35,000 while Saxbe holds the position — over a protest that it was making a mockery of the Constitution.

House Civil Service Chairman Thaddeus J. Dulski, D-N.Y., asked for House approval of the measure by early next week without holding hearings. He predicted overwhelming approval.

President Nixon has held up submitting Saxbe's nomination for Senate confirmation until the pay-reduction bill is passed.

Sens. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., and Robert Byrd, D-W. Va., fought the measure in the Senate Wednesday, with Ervin declaring it would make a mockery of the Constitution and Byrd calling it an indirect attempt to amend the Constitution.

"The constitutional prohibition against the appointment of Mr. Saxbe is complete, final, absolute and beyond remedy by legislation," Byrd said.

Lottery Panel To Hammer Out Procedures

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A five-member commission has been named to establish and run Ohio's first lottery, but sale of the first tickets is months away.

Gov. John J. Gilligan named three Democrats and two Republicans Wednesday from a list he said included "literally hundreds of Ohioans."

The legislature empowered the commission to work out all the details on the operation which is expected to pour upwards of $100 million a year into the state treasury.

Most of the funds are to be earmarked initially for payment of Ohio's recently approved $300 million Vietnam veterans' bonus.

—Bernice MacKenzie, 68, of Canton, a Democrat whose term expires Nov. 20, 1977. She is a former member of Canton City Council and was a member of the Ohio House from 1959-1966.

—Richard S. Rust Jr., 55, Cincinnati insurance executive and a Republican whose term expires Nov. 20, 1974. He is vice president of the Union Central Life Insurance Co. and a graduate in law of the University of Cincinnati.

—Mary E. Yates, 43, a Democrat whose term expires Nov. 20, 1976. She is a former member of Cleveland City Council and a member of the planned parenthood organization of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Gilligan said in naming the members, whose appointments still must be confirmed by the Ohio Senate, that they have "the integrity, the ability, and the dedication to public service to assure Ohioans of an honest, well-managed state lottery operation."

At least eight states currently have a state lottery, and at least ten others are considering one. Most have been successful as state money makers.

There also have been big pay offs. In Massachusetts this week, a young bachelor won $1 million in that state's lottery.

The amount of the prizes and the frequency of drawings, along with where and by whom the tickets will be sold, are among the many details the commission will have to work out in the weeks and months ahead.

Gilligan still has to name a full time executive director who will receive a salary of $26,437 a year to start. He said he will use the commission as a screening board in the selection of the executive director.

The commission will name its own chairman.

The state lottery law, passed by the legislature this year after voters lifted a constitutional ban on lotteries, provides that 45 per cent of the proceeds must go for prizes. Ten per cent is to be earmarked for administration, and 45 per cent for the state's general revenue fund to help pay off the Vietnam bonus bonds.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was lower today, amid worries over the oil shortage and the Mideast. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was off 7.07 at 832.71, while declines led advances on the New York Stock Exchange by nearly 8 to 5. Earlier in the session the Dow had been off more than 8.

Analysts said that Soviet Communist party head Leonid I. Brezhnev's warning that the Mideast could explode into a new war unless a settlement was reached soon had unsettled the market.

The Amex market-value index at noon was off .20 at 94.03, while the NYSE index was off .34 at 51.71.

Big Board prices included Southern Co., up 1/8 to 15; Walt Disney Productions, off 2 1/4 to 44 1/4; Xerox, off 2 1/2 to 130; Greyhound, off 1/4 to 15 1/2; and Bausch & Lomb, off 2 1/2 to 36 1/4.

On Wednesday, the Dow rose more than 22 points in a technical rally. Analysts said the market was ready for further gains, but had been depressed by news about the Mideast.

Colder Air Hits U.S. Midsection

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Clear and crisp weather dominated the nation's midsection today as temperatures dipped below freezing as far south as Texas.

Readings in the 30s were common in most of Mississippi, northern Alabama and northwest Georgia.

Rain mixed with snow dabbled areas from the lower Great Lakes and West Virginia into New England. Some showers touched the central Atlantic Coast.

Snow and rain chilled scattered locations in the Pacific Northwest and northern Rockies. Precipitation generally was less than half an inch.

Strong northwesterly winds over Lake Michigan Wednesday night whipped up waves 8 to 12 feet along the Michigan and Indiana shores.

Beach erosion, flooding of low-lying areas and roadways was expected.

Rain-swollen Indiana streams and rivers were nearing cresting stages today. The Ohio River between Tell City and Fords Ferry was expected to rise to flood stage at many points during the next several days.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 2 at Raton, N.M., to 78 at Key West, Fla.

Clear and crisp weather dominated the nation's midsection today as temperatures dipped below freezing as far south as Texas.

Readings in the 30s were common in most of Mississippi, northern Alabama and northwest Georgia.

Rain mixed with snow dabbled areas from the lower Great Lakes and West Virginia into New England. Some showers touched the central Atlantic Coast.

Snow and rain chilled scattered locations in the Pacific Northwest and northern Rockies. Precipitation generally was less than half an inch.

Strong northwesterly winds over Lake Michigan Wednesday night whipped up waves 8 to 12 feet along the Michigan and Indiana shores.

Beach erosion, flooding of low-lying areas and roadways was expected.

Rain-swollen Indiana streams and rivers were nearing cresting stages today. The Ohio River between Tell City and Fords Ferry was expected to rise to flood stage at many points during the next several days.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 2 at Raton, N.M., to 78 at Key West, Fla.

Buzhardt Reports Mind Blanks

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House lawyer J. Fred Buzhardt says that the long days he has been putting in on the Watergate tapes case have made it hard for him to remember when he may have been told things.

He also had trouble in federal court Wednesday recalling who told him some things.

And, he said, there were some things about the tapes he never was told at all.

"I don't have a good recollection for dates," Buzhardt said when, under questioning by assistant prosecutor Richard Ben Veniste, he couldn't recall when he had talked to President Nixon's secretary about a possible blank section of one of the subpoenaed tapes.

Buzhardt followed the secretary, Rose Mary Woods, to the witness stand Wednesday at a hearing called to determine what might have caused an 18-minute segment of the tape of a June 20, 1972, conversation between the President and H.R. Haldeman to be obliterated by a steady hum.

He said the reason he was having trouble remembering when that and other conversations occurred was that he has been working 16-hour days.

He also testified he couldn't recall whether it was the President or Alexander M. Haig Jr., White House staff chief, who first told him there might be a blank segment on one tape.

Deputy White House Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said later, "There is no question that the conversations the subpoena covers are intact. There are no blanks in the seven subpoenaed conversations except for the 18-minute one."

Buzhardt also was questioned at length about how he learned of the blank segment and how he came to change his opinion about whether the Haldeman conversation on June 20 was covered by the subpoena issued last July 23 by the Watergate special prosecutor.

He said the prosecutors appeared to be in error in assuming that the subpoena, as written, covered the conversation with Haldeman as well as the one with Ehrlichman.

He couldn't recall whether the President, also a lawyer, ever gave his opinion on whether the conversation was covered by the subpoena.

It wasn't until Nov. 14, when he re-read a memorandum filed in court Aug. 13 by the special prosecutor in support of the subpoena, that he decided the prosecutors did want the Haldeman conversation.

That evening, he said, he listened to the June 20 tape.

The next day, Buzhardt said, he went to Haig and told him that the gap was on a tape covered by the subpoena.

Buzhardt's testimony appeared to conflict with White House statements that Nixon was not certain until Nov. 20 that the 18-minute blank segment was on a conversation included in the subpoena.

Warren said late Wednesday that the White House position was unchanged, that Nixon wasn't convinced until Nov. 20 it was a subpoenaed conversation.

Transit Fare Credit Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Saying cash would be a strong incentive to get people to use mass transit system, Rep. William Minshall, R-Ohio, has proposed full tax writeoffs of the cost of commuter fares.

Minshall introduced a bill Wednesday which he said would be an "important tool not only in easing the current petroleum shortage, but the long-term urban problems of traffic congestion and air pollution."

Minshall, a member of the House transportation appropriations committee, said 81 per cent of all Americans drive private cars to work.

He said commuter tax credits would provide each commuter with several hundreds of dollars annually, "a strong incentive."

"I believe that incentive, not government coercion, is the way to enlist citizen cooperation to achieve any desired goal in a free society," Minshall said in a House speech.

$20,000 FOR STAGE'S POND

Miss Miriam Weaver, general chairman of the Stage's Pond Drive, presents a check for $20,000 to Marshal Moser, The Nature Conservancy for purchase of Stage's Pond. Watching the presentation is William Nye, Director of Natural Resources of the State of Ohio.

A special meeting of the Stage's Pond Drive committee was held 1 p.m. Wednesday in the conference room of the Department of Natural Resources Building, Columbus.

Present for the meeting were Mrs. Carl J. Ide, State Garden Club of Ohio Environmental Improvement Program Chairman; Mrs. Harold A. Bird Jr., first vice-president, State Garden Club of Ohio; Richard Mosely, Administration of Ohio Natural Areas and Scenic Rivers Planning Section; Stephen Warner, Natural Areas Planner; Marshal Moser Jr., Director of the Ohio Chapter of the Nature Conservancy and representatives of the Franklin and Pickaway County Garden Clubs.

Miss Miriam E. Weaver, general chairman, presented a draft for $20,000 to Moser of The Nature Conservancy.

Approximately 89 garden clubs, 19 organizations, five schools, 28 businesses and industries and 392 individuals have joined together to make this goal a reality.

Pickaway County Garden Club in cooperation with The Columbus Council of Garden Clubs wish to extend their sincere thanks to those helping to make the goal possible.

City Police Arrest Man, 3 Juveniles

City police have arrested Roger Newlon, 22, Route 3, and two Circleville juvenile boys, ages 16 and 17, for passing forged checks in the city Monday.

The trio passed two checks at the Savings Bank and single checks at Super Duper, Big Bear and Palm's Drive Thru.

A 17-year-old boy was also arrested in connection with the breaking and entering at Circleville High School early Tuesday morning.

All four were taken into custody Wednesday night.

Banning Vehicles

Not long ago the private automobile was proclaimed the lifeblood of metropolitan commerce. Today in many cities throughout the world the car is considered a nuisance and city officials are taking drastic action to curtail the number of vehicles venturing downtown.

If this sounds like an attempt to commit commercial suicide, contrary results frequently are reported. Many of the world's largest cities now limit or ban traffic in congested sections with the exception of mass transit.

A roster of cities which employ outright bans or discouragements such as high parking fees include New York, London, Vienna, Copenhagen, Amsterdam, Stockholm, Zurich and Paris. According to a survey made by the 23-nation

Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development, more than 100 cities now ban traffic from some streets reserved for pedestrians.

All of these actions are voluntary and have nothing to do with fuel shortages. The possibility that other countries may be forced to follow Holland's example of banning all traffic on Sundays or other times to conserve fuel could expand the list greatly.

A Topsy-Turvy World

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — Has anybody mentioned that it's a topsy-turvy world?

Well, now that somebody discovered that, here are a few proofs:

President Nixon, who has received a warm personal letter of confidence from Leonid Brezhnev, has't gotten around to releasing it. Probably too shy.

If the Congress backs up RN's suggested clampdown on the spending of energy, a certain number of politicians will be bounced out of office next year by an historic groundswell: the indignation of users of electric toothbrushes.

If the national speed limit of 50 is still in effect next Memorial Day, it will be the first time in history that the 33 cars entered in the Indianapolis 500 finished in a dead heat.

Michigan played rings around Ohio State to tie the biggest Big Ten game last Saturday, 10-10. Ohio State, stupidly coached by Woody Hayes, was lucky to get away with a draw. Two Michigan placekicks, though booted from a line somewhere near Pontiac, missed by a few yards in the final minute or so. If the ball had been equipped with a close-proximity fuse, it would have blown Ohio State out of the ballpark. So Ohio State was chosen to go to the Rose Bowl Game.

Pete Rose of the Cincinnati Red Stockings was voted the most Valuable Player in the National League. Had a fine season: 64 runs batted in, five home runs, and 49 extra-base hits. He beat out Willie Stargell of the Pittsburgh Pirates in the voting. Willie only drove home 119 runs, blasted 44 home runs, and had 90 extra bases.

Reminds me of a nice quiet talk George Stinewiss once made at the New York Baseball Writers Banquet, in accepting an unexpected award. "I guess they recognized my intangibles," George said.

Washington is so desperate for a major league baseball club that a group headed by a supermarket owner named Joe Danzansky offered $12,000,000 for one of the rottenest ballclubs in Baseball's bondage — the San Diego Padres. That's about $2,000,000 more than the immortal New York Yankees were sold for not too long ago.

But there's a battle to keep the Padres in San Diego, even though it has had a hard enough time with the shutting down of some of its U.S. Navy payrolls. Mrs. Marjorie Lindheimer Everett wants to keep the team there. Mrs. Everett's role in sports financing and its overtones have been dealt with at great length since her testimony at the trial of former Illinois Governor Otto Kerner.

Kerner was convicted of profiting from racetrack stock sold to him at a bargain price by Mrs. Lindheimer. She testified that she (as owner of the track) was pressured into the deal by a member of the Illinois Racing Board ... and a lot of other things.

Anyway, if the team — dreadful as it is — goes under her control and stays put in San Diego, it is symptomatic of the permissiveness that has seeped into baseball. Old Judge Landis would have chased her down a country road with his shootin' arn. Landis once blackballed Bing Crosby's effort to buy a share of the Pittsburgh Pirates because Bing owned a racehorse. A racehorse that couldn't even play baseball.

Doc Gallup's latest poll, apparently taken under cover of darkness at a rock festival, shows that Sen. Ted Kennedy is the "over-whelming choice of Democrats to be the party's 1976 Presidential nominee."

If so, the Democrats better do something about their bench.

Some enterprising inventor should clean up from the White House announcement that 18 minutes and 15 seconds of a vital taped conversation between the President and his chief of

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Wouldn't you be startled if your physician suggested trying to cure your child of measles by bleeding him? Yes, but until the middle of the 19th century bleeding was a standard remedy for this disease in several parts of the United States.

New speed limits may chafe some modern motorists, but in the days of the "horseless carriage" the speed limits sometimes were four miles an hour in the country and two in the city. Some communities even enacted the hated "Red Flag Act." It required that a man walk 60 yards in front of an automobile and wave a red flag "for the protection of people with horses."

The fuel crisis may not be as much of a problem to India as it is to many Western countries. Cows are a major power source there. Each year India burns 100 million tons of cow dung as fuel for cooking and heat.

If you're a man, here's why Santa Claus will probably leave a necktie under your yule tree; more than 50 per cent of all ties sold yearly are purchased during the Christmas season.

Quotable notables: "Man is a lazy animal. He works when he must—for bread to feed his body or for approbation to feed his ego." —Elmer Rice.

Geographical oddity: One out of every four Canadians lives south of

A 22-page analysis of the remarkable mishap suggests that — drat it all! — the wipeout was caused by a hum that developed when "the depression of a 'record' button during the process of reviewing the tape, possibly while the recorder was in the proximity of an electric typewriter and a high intensity lamp."

Look for that dandy new combination electric typewriter and high intensity lamp — made by the Deadly Pause Electronic Corp. — with which you can shut off Joe Namath's shaving commercials, used car salesmen, detergents that can clean Lake Erie with one squirt, and that rotten little koala bear who hates his airline.

Minneapolis. The extreme southern point of Canada dips below Boston.

Troublesome tongue: English, now the most widely used language on earth, is also so quirky that many find it difficult to learn, including those born to it. A foreign student at an American university told his faculty adviser: "I'm glad to say I find no trouble with the English language—just its idioms."

Household hint: To start a charcoal fire for outdoor cooking, place charcoal lumps in each depression of an empty egg carton. Then set carton afire. By the time it finishes burning, the charcoal should be well lit.

Worth remembering: "Falling in love is like taking a picture—you're never sure how it will turn out."

Folklore: If a joint cracks when you pull a finger, that's a sign you told a lie. To cure a cold, wrap a dirty woolen sock around the neck or tie a fish skin to the foot. An unmarried woman who witnesses a cornerstone laying won't find a husband within a year.

For French Pate

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli goose breeders exported 133 tons of goose liver worth $2 million last year, mostly to France.

David Gersten, director of the Egg and Poultry Board, said Israel would export about 400 tons of the delicacy by 1980.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday Nov. 29, the 333rd day of 1973. There are 32 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1760, the French surrendered Detroit to the British at the end of the French and Indian war.

On this date—

In 1825, the first Italian opera presented in the United States, Rossini's "Barber of Seville," was performed in New York.

In 1899, the United States, Switzerland and France recognized the Republic of Brazil.

In 1922, archaeologists announced they had found fabulous treasure in the tomb of King Tutankhamen in Egypt.

In 1929, United States Navy Lt. Cmdr. Richard E. Byrd radioed that he had made the first flight over the South Pole.

In 1945, the monarchy was abolished in Yugoslavia.

In 1963, a commission was named under Chief Justice Earl Warren to investigate the assassination of John F. Kennedy.

Ten years ago ... all 118 persons on a Canadian jetliner were killed in a crash during a driving rainstorm near Montreal.

Five years ago ... the Viet Cong in South Vietnam ordered a new offensive, saying it would utterly destroy United States and South Vietnamese combat forces and pacification teams.

One year ago ... President Nixon selected Peter J. Brennan as Secretary of Labor to succeed James Hodgson.

Today's birthdays: Skier Suzanne Chaffe is 27 years old. Artist James Rosenquist is 40 years old.

Circleville city council was requested to back up the Rotary Club sponsored safety campaign by passing a ruling to confiscate bicycles operated by traffic violators.

The decision to put teeth into the safety move was reached at a meeting in the courthouse of 14 local businessmen, civic club leaders and school heads.

Circleville's undefeated, untied football team was ranked 12th in the International News Service Ohio grid poll by sportswriters and sportscasters throughout the state.

Circleville was granted a .05 mill tax increase by Pickaway County Budget Commission to cover operating expenses in 1949. City council adopted a resolution accepting the $50,630.51 which was allowed by the budget panel figured on a 5.05 mill tax structure. The city was operating on a five-mill levy.

Circleville justice of peace court developed mass production technique when 17 game violators were hauled before Squire Oscar Root to pay a total of $310 in fines.

Circleville board of education was urged to start an automobile driver class in the high school as part of the regular curricula. John Heiskell, spokesman for Circleville Kiwanis Club, accompanied by Ned Harden, local auto dealer, met with board members to outline a plan for driving classes.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Indigestion is the basis for many of the questions that readers write about. One of them is, "What is the medical meaning of indigestion?"

Indigestion, or dyspepsia, is a combination of symptoms caused by some disturbance in the functioning of the esophagus, the stomach, and the small intestine.

Heartburn, nausea, belching, a feeling of fullness and abdominal cramps may be noted, especially after overeating or indiscreet eating.

The most common causes of indigestion are attributed to improper choice of foods, inadequate chewing of food, eating during periods of emotional stress, eating too rapidly, overloading the stomach, and the overuse of alcohol and tobacco.

Some people can easily tolerate the hottest, spiciest foods. Others are made miserable by the slightest amount of spice, onion or garlic.

The so-called gas-forming foods such as cabbage, turnips and beans, and greasy, fried foods are more apt to affect digestion. They can interfere with the speed with which they pass from the stomach to the intestines.

People who suffer from chronic gall bladder disease, peptic ulcers, hiatus hernia, and chronic liver disease usually have more frequent bouts of indigestion.

There are many exact ways to track down the reasons for regular and persistent attacks of indigestion.

X-rays of the esophagus, the stomach and the intestines can pinpoint abnormalities if they exist. With special dyes gall bladder disease, with or without stones, can be established.

When there are no known evidences of disease, some simple rules for better eating habits may prevent the distressing symptoms of indigestion.

- 1) Chew food thoroughly.
- 2) Eat in a relaxed atmosphere, free from emotional stress.
- 3) Don't try to work out all family problems at the dinner table.
- 4) Eat smaller quantities of food at more regular intervals.
- 5) Avoid the foods that you know by experience do not agree with you.

A school survey reveals the high frequency is defective color vision in children.

This defect, long unrecognized, is now thought to be associated with unexplained psychological behavior problems.

Far too many children with defects of vision and unrecognized hearing impairments are handicapped and considered to be "slow" even though their intellectual capacity may be excellent.

It is imperative that such defects and psychological stresses be uncovered before a child is labeled an inadequate student.

Business World

NEW YORK (AP) — Remember that weak old dollar that the United States was forced to devalue officially because nobody abroad was willing to pay face value for it?

It's a different dollar now, and foreigners are eager to pay list price for it, despite all the economic problems facing the United States, despite the oil cutback, despite Watergate ...

The fact is that the value of the dollar is now rising against most other well known currencies, and that could mean good news for American tourists abroad, for the U.S. stock market, and for domestic borrowers.

A few examples will demonstrate.

In the Oct. 22-26 period you would have had to pay $2.44 for a British pound. On Nov. 20 you could have had it for a little more than $2.39.

In the same October period you would have had to pay 37.5 cents for a Japanese yen, but about a month later you could have picked one up for less than 36 cents.

These aren't isolated instances. The dollar also has been growing stronger in relation to the German mark, French franc, Dutch guilder, Italian lira, Belgian franc—even when matched against the Canadian dollar.

While some economists were shrewd enough to foresee the trend, a good many others confess to being surprised, mainly because the reasons are hidden at the bottom of a heap of bad economic news.

Perhaps the clearest explanation is to say that the economic problems of the United States, though challenging, aren't nearly so bad as those confronting the nations of Europe, and of Japan. Inflation abroad, for example, is very bad.

As analysts of the First National City Bank put it this week, "After a lull in August, inflation sparked through Europe in September like a flash fire in a hay field." And the absence of oil now adds fuel to the fire.

During September, inflation in Japan raged at 2.9 per cent, a rate which if continued would amount to an annual rate of nearly 35 per cent. In all Europe the rate was nearly 1 per cent, or close to 12 per cent a year.

Even with a continuation of the oil cutback, few analysts expect the United States rate to exceed 8 or 9 per cent. In the 12 months to September it averaged out to "only" 7.4 per cent.

Moreover, the United States trade account has now shifted into surplus. That is, after a whopping $6.9 billion deficit last year, American exports have been exceeding imports in recent months.

Acting on their judgment that the United States is a relatively better place for their money, many foreign individuals and institutions have been investing in U.S. stocks, weak as they are. In the third quarter, foreign purchases of U.S. securities topped $700 million.

The effect of these purchases, should they continue, would be to put a platform under the market, and to some extent exert downward pressure on interest rates.

Former OSU Prof Asked To Repay

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A former chairman of the department of obstetrics and gynecology at Ohio State University was asked today to repay the state $6,671.95.

The request came in a lawsuit filed by Atty. Gen. Bill Brown in Franklin County Common Pleas Court.

The suit charges Dr. John C. Ullery made 22 trips to Florida between 1968 and 1971 and charged the state for expenses.

The trips "were not made for the purposes stated in the travel requests and were not for legitimate university business," the suit contends.

Brown said Ullery claimed he spent 170 days in the Tampa, Fla., area for speaking engagements and to deliver professional papers to medical groups and hospital staffs.

The state auditor's office contacted associations and hospitals mentioned in Ullery's expense reports and "none of these associations and hospitals had any records of an address or presentation of papers by Dr. Ullery," Brown said.

Ullery retired from the Ohio State Faculty in 1971, the attorney general said, and now lives in Clearwater, Fla.

They'll Do It Every Time

A Page Of Opinion

Banning Vehicles

Not long ago the private automobile was proclaimed the lifeblood of metropolitan commerce. Today in many cities throughout the world the car is considered a nuisance and city officials are taking drastic action to curtail the number of vehicles venturing downtown.

If this sounds like an attempt to commit commercial suicide, contrary results frequently are reported. Many of the world's largest cities now limit or ban traffic in congested sections with the exception of mass transit.

A roster of cities which employ outright bans or discouragements such as high parking fees include New York, London, Vienna, Copenhagen, Amsterdam, Stockholm, Zurich and Paris. According to a survey made by the 23-nation

Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development, more than 100 cities now ban traffic from some streets reserved for pedestrians.

All of these actions are voluntary and have nothing to do with fuel shortages. The possibility that other countries may be forced to follow Holland's example of banning all traffic on Sundays or other times to conserve fuel could expand the list greatly.

A Topsy-Turvy World

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — Has anybody mentioned that it's a topsy-turvy world?

Well, now that somebody discovered that, here are a few proofs:

President Nixon, who has received a warm personal letter of confidence from Leonid Brezhnev, has't gotten around to releasing it. Probably too shy.

If the Congress backs up RN's suggested clampdown on the spending of energy, a certain number of politicians will be bounced out of office next year by an historic groundswell: the indignation of users of electric toothbrushes.

If the national speed limit of 50 is still in effect next Memorial Day, it will be the first time in history that the 33 cars entered in the Indianapolis 500 finished in a dead heat.

Michigan played rings around Ohio State to tie the biggest Big Ten game last Saturday, 10-10. Ohio State, stupidly coached by Woody Hayes, was lucky to get away with a draw. Two Michigan placekicks, though booted from a line somewhere near Pontiac, missed by a few yards in the final minute or so. If the ball had been equipped with a close-proximity fuse, it would have blown Ohio State out of the ballpark. So Ohio State was chosen to go to the Rose Bowl Game.

Pete Rose of the Cincinnati Red Stockings was voted the most Valuable Player in the National League. Had a fine season: 64 runs batted in, five home runs, and 49 extra-base hits. He beat out Willie Stargell of the Pittsburgh Pirates in the voting. Willie only drove home 119 runs, blasted 44 home runs, and had 90 extra bases.

Reminds me of a nice quiet talk George Starnweiss once made at the New York Baseball Writers Banquet, in accepting an unexpected award. "I guess they recognized my intangibles," George said.

Washington is so desperate for a major league baseball club that a group headed by a supermarket owner named Joe Danzansky offered $12,000,000 for one of the rottenest ballclubs in Baseball's bondage — the San Diego Padres. That's about $2,000,000 more than the immortal New York Yankees were sold for not too long ago.

But there's a battle to keep the Padres in San Diego, even though it has had a hard enough time with the shutting down of some of its U.S. Navy payrolls. Mrs. Marjorie Lindheimer Everett wants to keep the team there. Mrs. Everett's role in sports financing and its overtones have been dealt with at great length since her testimony at the trial of former Illinois Governor Otto Kerner.

Kerner was convicted of profiting from racetrack stock sold to him at a bargain price by Mrs. Lindheimer. She testified that she (as owner of the track) was pressured into the deal by a member of the Illinois Racing Board ... and a lot of other things.

Anyway, if the team — dreadful as it is — goes under her control and stays put in San Diego, it is symptomatic of the permissiveness that has seeped into baseball. Old Judge Landis would have chased her down a country road with his shootin' arn. Landis once blackballed Bing Crosby's effort to buy a share of the Pittsburgh Pirates because Bing owned a racehorse. A racehorse that couldn't even play baseball.

Doc Gallup's latest poll, apparently taken under cover of darkness at a rock festival, shows that Sen. Ted Kennedy is the "over-whelming choice of Democrats to be the party's 1976 Presidential nominee."

If so, the Democrats better do something about their bench.

Some enterprising inventor should clean up from the White House announcement that 18 minutes and 15 seconds of a vital taped conversation between the President and his chief of staff Bob Haldeman was accidentally erased. A 22-page analysis of the remarkable mishap suggests that — drat it all! — the wipeout was caused by a hum that developed when "the depression of a 'record' button during the process of reviewing the tape, possibly while the recorder was in the proximity of an electric typewriter and a high intensity lamp."

Look for that dandy new combination electric typewriter and high intensity lamp — made by the Deadly Pause Electronic Corp. — with which you can shut off Joe Namath's shaving commercials, used car salesmen, detergents that can clean Lake Erie with one squirt, and that rotten little koala bear who hates his airline.

Want a dog? Tired of the kids? Then contact David Stry at Villa Vegetariana Health Spa, Cuernavaca, Mex. His advertisement in the Mexico City News reads:

FOR SALE: good watchdog. Will eat anything. Especially fond of children.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Wouldn't you be startled if your physician suggested trying to cure your child of measles by bleeding him? Yes, but until the middle of the 19th century bleeding was a standard remedy for this disease in several parts of the United States.

New speed limits may chafe some modern motorists, but in the days of the "horseless carriage" the speed limits sometimes were four miles an hour in the country and two in the city. Some communities even enacted the hated "Red Flag Act." It required that a man walk 60 yards in front of an automobile and wave a red flag "for the protection of people with horses."

The fuel crisis may not be as much of a problem to India as it is to many Western countries. Cows are a major power source there. Each year India burns 100 million tons of cow dung as fuel for cooking and heat.

If you're a man, here's why Santa Claus will probably leave a necktie under your yule tree; more than 50 per cent of all ties sold yearly are purchased during the Christmas season. Quotable notables: "Man is a lazy animal. He works when he must—for bread to feed his body or for approbation to feed his ego." —Elmer Rice.

Geographical oddity: One out of every four Canadians lives south of Minneapolis. The extreme southern point of Canada dips below Boston.

Troublesome tongue: English, now the most widely used language on earth, is also so quirky that many find it difficult to learn, including those born to it. A foreign student at an American university told his faculty adviser: "I'm glad to say I find no trouble with the English language—just its idiotisms."

Household hint: To start a charcoal fire for outdoor cooking, place charcoal lumps in each depression of an empty egg carton. Then set carton afire. By the time it finishes burning, the charcoal should be well lighted.

Worth remembering: "Falling in love is like taking a picture — you're never sure how it will turn out."

Folklore: If a joint cracks when you pull a finger, that's a sign you told a lie. To cure a cold, wrap a dirty woolen sock around the neck or tie a fish skin to the foot. An unmarried woman who witnesses a cornerstone laying won't find a husband within a year.

For French Pate

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli goose breeders exported 133 tons of goose liver worth $2 million last year, mostly to France.

David Gersten, director of the Egg and Poultry Board, said Israel would export about 400 tons of the delicacy by 1980.

Proposed Night Lighting Ban Could Increase Ohio Crime

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A state legislator's bill to ban outdoor commercial lighting after 9 p.m. might attract more crime to Ohio streets, a law enforcement official said Wednesday.

But Columbus Police Chief Earl Burden said his department would be willing to risk the darker streets if it would help in the energy crisis.

State Rep. Michael Stinziano, D-30, Columbus has prepared a bill to be introduced in the legislature next month that would require all businesses to turn off electric lights after 9 p.m.

"My bill would ban all outdoor advertising, including signs identifying places of business, window displays and advertising signs," Stinziano said.

Burden said turning off lights could threaten security in business areas. He said municipalities must maintain some minimum lighting in the area to discourage breakins and other street crime.

"I'm not prepared to say how much is minimum lighting, but there's got to be some," Burden said.

Stinziano, in a statement, said the measure would result in a "substantial savings of electric power in Ohio."

Persons who did not obey the proposal could be fined up to $100, he said.

His bill was to be introduced this week and considered when the General Assembly convenes in January.

A national spokesman for sign-makers claimed such action would not save much energy.

Michael Shenk of the National Electric Sign Association in Chicago said the association is compiling data on energy use of electric signs, but that first findings show "it (turning off lights) doesn't result in any great energy savings."

He said it is especially true in states like Ohio which use coal for energy needs rather than fuel oil.

Proposed Night Lighting Ban Could Increase Ohio Crime

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A state legislator's bill to ban outdoor commercial lighting after 9 p.m. might attract more crime to Ohio streets, a law enforcement official said Wednesday.

But Columbus Police Chief Earl Burden said his department would be willing to risk the darker streets if it would help in the energy crisis.

State Rep. Michael Stinziano, D-30, Columbus has prepared a bill to be introduced in the legislature next month that would require all businesses to turn off electric lights after 9 p.m.

"My bill would ban all outdoor advertising, including signs identifying places of business, window displays and advertising signs," Stinziano said.

Burden said turning out lights could threaten security in business areas. He said municipalities must maintain some minimum lighting in the area to discourage breakins and other street crime.

"I'm not prepared to say how much is minimum lighting, but there's got to be some," Burden said.

Stinziano, in a statement, said the

St. Paul Church Plans Service

A series of three services with the theme "New Life" is scheduled at St. Paul Lutheran Church, Route 2, Ashville at 7:30 p.m. on Dec. 2, 3 and 4.

Messages will be by Pastor Ken Richards who is currently pastoring Christ The King Lutheran Church in Youngstown. The son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Richards of Marcy, he graduated from Walnut Twp. School in 1961.

Following graduation from Capital University and Evangelical Lutheran Seminary in Columbus, he served in Texas.

Special music is scheduled and a fellowship hour will conclude the Tuesday service.

County To Receive Gasoline Taxes

Pickaway County will receive $10,496 of $9,323,033 in gasoline taxes distributed in November to Ohio's cities according to State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson.

Gasoline excise tax receipts can be used only for street and roadway purposes.

measure would result in a "substantial savings of electric power in Ohio."

Persons who did not obey the proposal could be fined up to $100, he said.

His bill was to be introduced this week and considered when the General Assembly convenes in January.

A national spokesman for sign-makers claimed such action would not save much energy.

Michael Shenk of the National Electric Sign Association in Chicago said the association is compiling data on energy use of electric signs, but that first findings show "it (turning off lights) doesn't result in any great energy savings."

He said it is especially true in states like Ohio which use coal for energy needs rather than fuel oil.

'Kitchen Kapers' Program For Monday Club Meeting

Mrs. Wallace Higgins, president, opened the Monday Club meeting held Nov. 26th in the meeting room of the Historical Society, with a short poem. She announced that the Ohioana Year Books were available to all who wished to purchase them.

Guest speaker for the evening was Mrs. Glenn McCoy, R. D. Mrs. McCoy holds a BS degree in Home Economics and a MS in Dietetics from the Ohio State University. She has worked in her field extensively in Columbus and in this area, and presently is Director of Dietary at Berger Hospital.

Using the title "Kitchen Kapers" and subtitled it "Food For Thought," she opened the program by providing copies of "Food For Fitness" a basic daily food guide published by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

She then showed by means of pictures and explanations what is available in convenience foods for both family and institutional use. She stated that the original convenience food was a can of condensed soup. Now an entire gourmet meal may well be produced using only canned, frozen or dry frozen foods.

"Hot" d'oeuvres may be purchased prearranged and frozen only needing to be transferred to the family china or silver trays. Prepared entrees have been on the market for many years but are constantly being improved. To the original beef stews, chicken and noodles, chow mein, macaroni and cheese, etc., has been added Beef Burgundy, Chicken Breast Neptune, Veal Cordon Bleu to name a few. Pre-

Coal Mining Still Dirty And Dangerous Work

CANONSBURG, Pa. (AP) — It's a little cleaner, and the work is easier, but it is still coal mining. And the danger, although less prevalent, still hangs above the miners' heads or swirls around their feet in thick, soaking coal sludge.

Most of the wizened, yellowstained, bent men of yesterday are gone. They have been replaced by ambitious youths with an attraction for big machines in a job that has taken on sudden urgency in the search for energy.

Picks and shovels are only ancillary now to the mechanical teeth that chew out 20-foot rooms of coal.

Deep inside the earth, the dark is splintered by the flicker of electric headlamps. The walls, chalked with limestone to smother the highly volatile coal dust, give the appearance of an Ice Age cave.

Open, low-slung transport vehicles—a cross between a street car and a tilt-a-whirl buggy — carry the miners through the chilly maze of tunnels some 250 feet below the surface and a mile or more from the light of day.

The men are carried to the face—the furthest point in a pattern of 20-foot tunnels that covers more than 25 square miles of the Montour Mine No. 4 here.

Pinkish flashes glance off the glossy walls as electrical sparks leap from the trolley guide arm and the power cable.

Without the limestone wall dust, the sparks could touch off a suffocating inferno.

Above, a pattern of bolts holds the ceiling in place.

"For the new ones, anyway, I think the roof scares them most. That roof is dangerous. You don't know what's up there or what's going to come down," says John F. Furlong, safety inspector for the Pittsburgh Division of Consolidated Coal Co. "After they're here a while, though, some of them get to disrespect it."

General Mine Foreman Jim Beck is responsible for anything that goes wrong at Montour, one of eight bituminous coal mines in the Pittsburgh Division of Consolidated Coal Co. Since its opening in 1913, the Montour mine has produced as much as 10,000 tons of coal a day from beneath this Washington County area.

At the face of the mine automatic miners rip out as much as eight tons of coal a minute as a cylinder of toothed gears is nudged up against the wall.

The coal is scooped into a conveyor belt by mechanical arms and into a coal shuttle, which carries its 11-ton load to a waiting railway car.

Roof-bolting and dusting operations follow. The roof-bolter tests the ceiling with a pick for weak spots. One misplaced jab and the ceiling could cave in.

Giant plastic tubing bends around corners into each new cut to suck away the dangerous coal dust at the rate of 320 cubic feet of air per minute.

The mining, the bolting and the dusting continues for three 8-hour shifts as a honey-combed pattern is cut beneath the earth of Washington County.

Overseeing the work in one section of the mine is Andy Wojcovich from Washington, Pa., who has been in the mine for 26 years. Under his wing is young Charlie Poscue, a 23-year-old Mononhehela father of two who came to the mines after being laid off of a draftsman's job.

They exemplify the two generations in the mines today. Andy is almost 60. He was the last generation to follow fathers and grandfathers into the mines. An entire generation was lost in the 1950s as men swing away from this kind of work with the prediction that nuclear energy would replace coal.

Now younger men—unemployed, veterans who can't find a job or men who just want honest, steady work—are returning to the coal industry to work beside the older men.

"As a whole," says safety inspector Furlong "these younger miners are going to last. They're adapting well. They really go after that equipment."

But younger miners like Charlie present a problem for the coal firm. There has been an influx of about 260 young men since 1969 and in his workforce of 400 foreman Beck says he has inexperienced people teaching inexperienced people.

"If the industry had looked ahead, we wouldn't have to be training people in the middle of an energy problem," he says.

"We're doing everything possible at the mine level. We know they are after us for more coal but we are doing the best we can."

And the best the aging Montour can do is 7,200 tons a day, 300 tons short of the management-set quota. The mine has eight years left in its deep-mining life.

And when Montour closes it is not likely another mine will open to take its place.

Coal Mining Still Dirty And Dangerous Work

CANONSBURG, Pa. (AP) — It's a little cleaner, and the work is easier, but it is still coal mining. And the danger, although less prevalent, still hangs above the miners' heads or swirls around their feet in thick, soaking coal sludge.

Most of the wizened, yellowstained, bent men of yesterday are gone. They have been replaced by ambitious youths with an attraction for big machines in a job that has taken on sudden urgency in the search for energy.

Picks and shovels are only ancillary now to the mechanical teeth that chew out 20-foot rooms of coal.

Deep inside the earth, the dark is splintered by the flicker of electric headlamps. The walls, chalked with limestone to smother the highly volatile coal dust, give the appearance of an Ice Age cave.

Open, low-slung transport vehicles—a cross between a street car and a tilt-a-whirl buggy—carry the miners through the chilly maze of tunnels some 250 feet below the surface and a mile or more from the light of day.

The men are carried to the face—the furthest point in a pattern of 20-foot tunnels that covers more than 25 square miles of the Montour Mine No. 4 here.

Pinkish flashes glance off the glossy walls as electrical sparks leap from the trolley guide arm and the power cable.

Without the limestone wall dust, the sparks could touch off a suffocating inferno.

Above, a pattern of bolts holds the ceiling in place.

"For the new ones, anyway, I think the roof scares them most. That roof is dangerous. You don't know what's up there or what's going to come down," says John F. Furlong, safety inspector for the Pittsburgh Division of Consolidated Coal Co. "After they're here a while, though, some of them get to disrespect it."

General Mine Foreman Jim Beck is responsible for anything that goes wrong at Montour, one of eight bituminous coal mines in the Pittsburgh Division of Consolidated Coal Co. Since its opening in 1913, the Montour mine has produced as much as 10,000 tons of coal a day from beneath this Washington County area.

At the face of the mine automatic miners rip out as much as eight tons of coal a minute as a cylinder of toothed gears is nudged up against the wall.

The coal is scooped into a conveyor belt by mechanical arms and into a coal shuttle, which carries its 11-ton load to a waiting railway car.

Roof-bolting and dusting operations follow. The roof-bolter tests the ceiling with a pick for weak spots. One misplaced jab and the ceiling could cave in.

Giant plastic tubing bends around corners into each new cut to suck away the dangerous coal dust at the rate of 320 cubic feet of air per minute.

The mining, the bolting and the dusting continues for three 8-hour shifts as a honey-combed pattern is cut beneath the earth of Washington County.

Overseeing the work in one section of the mine is Andy Wojcovich from Washington, Pa., who has been in the mine for 26 years. Under his wing is young Charlie Poscove, a 23-year-old Mononhehela father of two who came to the mines after being laid off of a draftsman's job.

They exemplify the two generations in the mines today. Andy is almost 60. His was the last generation to follow fathers and grandfathers into the mines. An entire generation was lost in the 1950s as men swing away from this kind of work with the prediction that nuclear energy would replace coal.

Now younger men—unemployed, veterans who can't find a job or men who just want honest, steady work—are returning to the coal industry to work beside the older men.

"As a whole," says safety inspector Furlong "these younger miners are going to last. They're adapting well. They really go after that equipment."

But younger miners like Charlie present a problem for the coal firm. There has been an influx of about 260 young men since 1969 and in his workforce of 400 foreman Beck says he has inexperienced people teaching inexperienced people.

"If the industry had looked ahead, we wouldn't have to be training people in the middle of an energy problem," he says.

"We're doing everything possible at the mine level. We know they are after us for more coal but we are doing the best we can."

And the best the aging Montour can do is 7,200 tons a day, 300 tons short of the management-set quota. The mine has eight years left in its deep-mining life.

And when Montour closes it is not likely another mine will open to take its place.

Heating Oil Regulations Explained

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House proposed a heating oil rationing plan Tuesday under which home owners using oil must lower their thermostats six degrees. All others using oil for heat must lower their thermostats ten degrees.

Here, in question and answer form, is an explanation of the plan, subject to official revision before its final adoption.

Q. Does absolutely everybody have to lower his heat?

A. Not everybody. Just householders and building operators who heat with "middle distillate fuel" that includes the usual "Number Two" home heating oil, kerosene, range oil, stove oil and diesel fuel. Those who heat with natural gas, electricity, wood or some other fuel are requested to cut their fuel consumption but are not legally required to do so.

Q. If I have to reduce my heating by government order, why don't those others?

A. Oil is a heating fuel whose deliveries can be controlled. It is much more difficult, in fact nearly impossible, to cut deliveries of electricity and natural gas for heating without creating serious problems and safety hazards. The administration is studying ways to cut the use of electricity and natural gas, possibly by imposing some sort of tax or surcharge on excess consumption. But it has not yet come up with a plan.

Q. What right does the government have to tell me how to heat my home?

A. It has the legal authority, based on 1973 amendments to the 1970 Economic Stabilization Act — the "Eagleton Amendment" — to control the distribution of fuels. It has been controlling distribution of home heating oil at the wholesale level since Nov. 1. Now, it plans to extend that control to the final consumer.

Q. Why is this necessary?

A. Because the United States has been increasing its fuel demand faster than its supply. The Arab oil nations made our problem worse by cutting off their shipments of oil to the United States last October. Thus, the consumption of all petroleum products — gasoline, home heating oil, industrial oil diesel and jet fuel — must be cut.

Q. I wouldn't mind turning down the thermostat a degree or two, but why six degrees?

A. That's what the government figures it will take to save about 15 per cent of the distillate oils: a six-degree reduction in homes and ten degrees everywhere else.

Q. President Nixon said Sunday night we should lower the heat six degrees to an average indoor temperature of 68 degrees. We always keep the thermostat at 68. Must we cut back?

A. Yes. You will have to turn your thermostat down to 62. The regulation says: "Each end-user must reduce his ambient indoor temperature by the appropriate amount, or take actions which will result in a fuel saving equivalent ..."

Q. Who's going to make me?

A. Nobody. But if you don't do it, you'll run out of fuel on a cold day.

Q. But my dealer makes sure my oil tank is full.

A. He won't in the future. The first delivery he makes under this program, he will fill up your fuel tank. After that, he will figure out how much is needed to refill it, but he will subtract six degrees' worth of fuel. It's up to you to make it last until the next delivery.

Q. If my dealer has to cut me back six degrees, how will he know where I set my thermostat last winter?

A. He doesn't have to know that. He knows how much fuel you used in December and January, because he sold it to you. He can figure out how much fuel your house used on a cold day a year ago, and, based on the current weather, he can figure out how much fuel your home would normally have used. Then he would subtract enough fuel for six degrees of heating, and deliver the result.

Q. What if I own a new house with oil heat and don't have a dealer or a record of a normal fuel use?

A. Each state is expected to set up local boards, appointed by each governor, to assign dealers to new customers. The regulations say new oil heaters will be allowed to operate at normal levels for a while to establish their performance, and then will be cut back six degrees or ten degrees like everyone else.

Q. What if I think a six-degree reduction is too low?

A. If you believe you really need more fuel than you are allotted, you can apply for relief to one of the local boards. If a local board recommends a special allocation, a federal petroleum allocation officer in your state can grant it and direct your dealer to give you more fuel.

Q. What if I think a six-degree reduction is too low?

A. If you believe you really need more fuel than you are allotted, you can apply for relief to one of the local boards. If a local board recommends a special allocation, a federal petroleum allocation officer in your state can grant it and direct your dealer to give you more fuel.

Federal Election Financing Plan Faces Tough House Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has passed 57-34 a landmark bill to provide federal financing of presidential and congressional campaigns but its chances appear doubtful in the House.

The plan, sponsored by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, as head of a bipartisan group, was attached as an amendment to a debt ceiling bill.

The Senate action sent it back to the House where Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., expected to head the House conferees on the legislation, said he felt it had no place on a debt bill.

The debt limit increase measure must be signed by President Nixon by midnight Friday or the government will face severe financing problems.

Senate sponsors of the proposal attributed the vote for it to revelations in the Watergate probes about methods used to get private political contributions and about gifts made to former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

They noted the Senate rejected a somewhat similar plan last July 53-38.

The federal subsidies in the Kennedy-Scott plan would cost about $250 million in presidential election years and $100 million in congressional election years.

In presidential primaries, the plan would provide federal matching payments for up to the first $100 received from a private contributor. Matching would start only after the candidate had received $100,000 in matchable gifts.

Total matching payments could not exceed $7 million for a candidate and he could not spend more than $15 million.

Senate and House nominees would have to use only the government subsidies.

Cole Retirement From GM Nears

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. President Edward N. Cole reaches the mandatory retirement age of 65 next September but the head of the nation's largest manufacturing corporation doesn't exactly plan on putting up the Gone Fishin' sign.

Cole said he expects to join a half dozen world business leaders in forming a new international air freight company which will use a new type aircraft with the ability to haul 128 tons of cargo or the equivalent of 55 GM Cadillacs.

Cole, GM president since 1967, said the plane will be able to fly nonstop from Detroit to Moscow, where he hopes to develop a market.

Sneek-A-Peek

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

Among the new picture books in the library is "Three Kittens" by Ginsburg (no, not Three Little Kittens). It is a delightful story with only five or six words to a page especially suited for bedtime. The three kittens pursue a mouse through the house, changing color as they run in and out of flour and the coal bin.

A futuristic tale for the more sophisticated child in "The endless Pavement" by Jacqueline Jackson. Josette lives in a Home-a-Rolla with all the necessary accessories; food slots, retractable blanket and a disposa-rola. She vrooms and veers along the highway in her little car until the day she discovers an apple tree. From that moment on, her life is forever changed. Far out! Scary! And, very good!

Also on the eerie side is "The Spooky Hand Mystery" by Lyles. Wally and his friend set out to solve a mystery and the only clue is a wad of bubble gum. The two detectives meet up with chimpanzees and fortune tellers as they follow a trail of bubble gum through the circus. There are plenty of laughs here for the beginning reader. Consider, too, "Beware, Beware, A Witch Won't Share" be deLage. Nothing too surprising here as the witch is satisfactorily punished for her

Among the new picture books in the library is "Three Kittens" by Ginsburg (no, not Three Little Kittens). It is a delightful story with only five or six words to a page especially suited for bedtime. The three kittens pursue a mouse through the house, changing color as they run in and out of flour and the coal bin.

A futuristic tale for the more sophisticated child in "The endless Pavement" by Jacqueline Jackson. Josette lives in a Home-a-Rolla with all the necessary accessories; food slots, retractable blanket and a disposa-rola. She vrooms and veers along the highway in her little car until the day she discovers an apple tree. From that moment on, her life is forever changed. Far out! Scary! And, very good!

Also on the eerie side is "The Spooky Hand Mystery" by Lyles. Wally and his friend set out to solve a mystery and the only clue is a wad of bubble gum. The two detectives meet up with chimpanzees and fortune tellers as they follow a trail of bubble gum through the circus. There are plenty of laughs here for the beginning reader. Consider, too, "Beware, Beware, A Witch Won't Share" by deLage. Nothing too surprising here as the witch is satisfactorily punished for her misdeeds. But a witch story is always in demand by the younger set.

How's this for a title: "My Mama Says There Aren't Any Zombies Ghosts, Vampires, Creatures, Demons, Monsters, Fiends, Goblins, or Things" by Judith Viorst? Deliciously dangerous monsters inhabit these pages, but little Nick's mama tells him they are not really there at all! But then, mama told him yo-yo's only cost 19c and they were really a quarter, so can he believe mama? This is a must monster book.

"The Funny Little Woman" by Arlene Mosel is last year's Caldecott winner. It is beautiful with the delicately colored drawings so characteristic of Oriental tales. Blair Lent's mysterious "oni" inhabit the nether regions, where they create all kinds of mischief. Children will roar as they suck up rivers in their cheeks and then spit them out in gales of laughter.

For young bakers, the "Cookie Book" by Eva Moore, features a cookie recipe for every month of the year. Simple enough for young children, it sticks to time tested varieties, like snicker doodles and molasses flavors. Profusely illustrated.

"Twist, Wriggle and Squirm" by Laurence Pringle depicts the life cycle of an earthworm. One in the series of Let's Read and Find Out books, it is directed toward first and second graders. Children will love the fat, squishy bodies found on every page and will even laugh at the frog with his mouth stuffed with his lunch of worms. There is not a drab page anywhere here.

State Drivers Face Tickets

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John J. Gilligan said today the highway patrol will issue warning citations to state employees who are spotted driving official vehicles more than 50 miles an hour.

Gilligan on Nov. 8 ordered state employees to drive no faster than 60 as one of several moves to conserve energy.

"The governor now feels that a 50 mile an hour speed limit better reflects the real and true nature of the energy crisis," said Joseph J. Sommer, director of the Ohio Department of Administrative Services.

Sommer said it's Gilligan's feeling state employees should set examples for other motorists.

Sommer said employees observed driving faster than 50 will be subject to disciplinary action, ranging from a

State Drivers Face Tickets

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John J. Gilligan said today the highway patrol will issue warning citations to state employees who are spotted driving official vehicles more than 50 miles an hour.

Gilligan on Nov. 8 ordered state employees to drive no faster than 60 as one of several moves to conserve energy.

"The governor now feels that a 50 mile an hour speed limit better reflects the real and true nature of the energy crisis," said Joseph J. Sommer, director of the Ohio Department of Administrative Services.

Sommer said it's Gilligan's feeling state employees should set examples for other motorists.

Sommer said employees observed driving faster than 50 will be subject to disciplinary action, ranging from a

Tigers Invade Lion Land

Circleville will open South Central Ohio League play Friday night when the Tigers travel to Washington C.H. to meet the Blue Lions, on the the pre-season favorites in the race for the SCOL title.

"This is a big game for us as it opens the battle for the league crown," coach John Lawhorn commented. "We scouted Washington C.H. against Portsmouth. And even though the Lions lost they impressed us as being a solid ball club."

"We've had some fine practice sessions this week and will be going after Washington C.H. Friday night. Our kids are ready and are looking forward to the challenge," Lawhorn stated.

Washington C.H. coach Gary Shaffer stated that this is the best looking all around club he has had since he took over in 1968. Schaffer described his club as "tall, talented and fast."

Starting for the Blue Lions will be: Chuck Byrd, 5-foot-10, and Craig Schaffer, 5-foot-9, at guards, Jeff Wallace, 6-foot-5, at center and Doug Phillips, 6-foot-3, and Kenny Knisley, 6-foot-3, at the forward posts.

Circleville will counter the height and speed of the Lions with its sticky man to man defense, aggressiveness on the boards and team hustle.

The starting team for the Tigers will be: Robin Martin, 5-foot-11, and Doug Radabaugh, 5-foot-11, at the guards, Kris Kline, 6-foot-2, at center and Harold Reed, 6-foot-1, and Perry Hoskins, 5-foot-11, working up front. John Ankrom, 5-foot-11, will be the sixth man for the Red and Black.

Colt Races Set For 1974 Fair

The Pickaway County Fair will have Colt races at the county fair in 1974, according to John Fissell, Race secretary.

The Pickaway County Fair has joined the Southeastern Ohio Fair Colt Circuit. The following fairs are members:

Wellston, Cadiz, Circleville, Chillicothe, Zanesville, Woodfield, Caldwell, McConnelsville, Old Washington.

The Colt Stakes consist of 2-year-old pace and 2-year-old trot, 3-year-old pace and 3-year-old trot. The purses for each event will be $3,000 or better.

This year's program will be the 2-year-old pace and 3-year-old trot on Tuesday, July 30 with additional two overnight events.

Wednesday, July 31, will be the 3-year-old pace and 2-year-old trot, plus two overnight events.

The Colt Stakes will bring the outstanding horses in the state, and this will help bring a bigger and better racing program at the Pickaway County Fair, Fissell stated.

Westfall Sets Fete

Westfall Booster Club will sponsor the Fall Sports banquet 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at the high school.

High school and junior high school teams, football and cross country, will be honored at the carry in dinner.

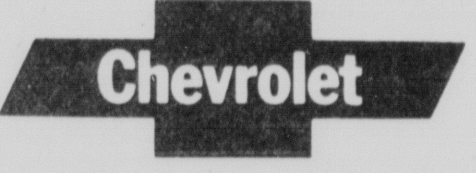

Drinks, rolls and meat dishes will be furnished by the Booster Club. Everyone must provide their own table service.

Ohio State Favored In Rose Bowl Game

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Oddsmakers have made Ohio State, Penn State, Texas and Alabama favorites in college football's major bowl games.

The Reno Turf Club, in odds issued Wednesday, said Ohio State was a 2½ point favorite over Southern California in the Rose Bowl.

Other odds had Penn State over Louisiana State by 1½ in the Orange Bowl, Texas a 2½ point favorite over Nebraska in the Cotton Bowl and Alabama favored by 6½ over Notre Dame in the Sugar Bowl.

Tigers Invade Lion Land

Circleville will open South Central Ohio League play Friday night when the Tigers travel to Washington C.H. to meet the Blue Lions, on the pre-season favorites in the race for the SCOL title.

"This is a big game for us as it opens the battle for the league crown," coach John Lawhorn commented. "We scouted Washington C.H. against Portsmouth. And even though the Lions lost they impressed us as being a solid ball club.

"We've had some fine practice sessions this week and will be going after Washington C.H. Friday night. Our kids are ready and are looking forward to the challenge," Lawhorn stated.

Washington C.H. coach Gary Shaffer stated that this is the best looking all around club he has had since he took over in 1968. Schaffer described his club as "tall, talented and fast."

Starting for the Blue Lions will be: Chuck Byrd, 5-foot-10, and Craig Schaffer, 5-foot-9, at guards, Jeff Wallace, 6-foot-5, at center and Doug Phillips, 6-foot-3, and Kenny Knisley, 6-foot-3, at the forward posts.

Circleville will counter the height and speed of the Lions with its sticky man to man defense, aggressiveness on the boards and team hustle.

The starting team for the Tigers will be: Robin Martin, 5-foot-11, and Doug Radabaugh, 5-foot-11, at the guards, Kris Kline, 6-foot-2, at center and Harold Reed, 6-foot-1, and Perry Hoskins, 5-foot-11, working up front. John Ankrom, 5-foot-11, will be the sixth man for the Red and Black.

Colt Races Set For 1974 Fair

The Pickaway County Fair will have Colt races at the county fair in 1974, according to John Fissell, Race secretary.

The Pickaway County Fair has joined the Southeastern Ohio Fair Colt Circuit. The following fairs are members:

Wellston, Cadiz, Circleville, Chillicothe, Zanesville, Woodsfield, Caldwell, McConnelsville, Old Washington.

The Colt Stakes consist of 2-year-old pace and 2-year-old trot, 3-year-old pace and 3-year-old trot. The purses for each event will be $3,000 or better.

This year's program will be the 2-year-old pace and 3-year-old trot on Tuesday, July 30 with additional two overnight events.

Wednesday, July 31, will be the 3-year-old pace and 2-year-old trot, plus two overnight events.

The Colt Stakes will bring the outstanding horses in the state, and this will help bring a bigger and better racing program at the Pickaway County Fair, Fissell stated.

Westfall Sets Fete

Westfall Booster Club will sponsor the Fall Sports banquet 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at the high school.

High school and junior high school teams, football and cross country, will be honored at the carry in dinner.

Drinks, rolls and meat dishes will be furnished by the Booster Club. Everyone must provide their own table service.

Extreme Heat Makes Siesta Both Practical, Pleasant

By GUY H. LEATHERWOOD
For The Herald
EDITOR'S NOTE: The author of these articles is not a newcomer to the Herald's readers. His travel series have appeared in this newspaper on Alaska and Israel. A retired postal supervisor, farmer and real estate dealer, he lives in Ashville.

If you ever wondered why these people are prone to cease work in the middle of the day, you have to know the conditions to realize how practical it is to do this.

They work early in the day (some of them do) and sometimes late. The Post Office opens about two hours in the morning and a little while in the afternoon, keeping with the spirit of things. It just gets so hot at times that if you are not careful you will become dehydrated. So there is a good reason for a long siesta in the middle of the day, Si, si Señor.

Horses, pigs and chickens run loose in town here but I have seen no cows or goats. The dogs stir things up quite a bit when they get to chasing the livestock. The pigs act as scavengers to a degree. The livestock isn't in much danger from speeding vehicles as the main streets are paved with rough cobblestones.

It seems that Coronado is responsible for the paving. Not that he was so altruistic. But he needed hard streets to transport his galleons on from the point where they were built to the harbor that used to be here. So along with the ruins of the old custom house and the ruins overlooking the town with the old cannon barrels still there, the town did inherit some constructive items also.

The people are very resourceful. I saw a type of bassinet or hammock would probably be a better name for it that a young mother had made for her child. She had used a piece of burlap to construct it with. It looked like a split burlap sack. She had hung it from the ceiling of the porch. As I came by one day it was swinging with one of the smallest bits of humanity in it that I ever saw, lustily protesting its station in a strange world.

Nearly every business establishment seems to be operating "hand to mouth," and in the case of restaurants, this means literally. Quite often if you offer a fifty peso note ($4) in payment for a meal which cost a dollar or so, they will have to send some one to the exchange store in order to be able to make change. This is common even at the market where a lot of business is done. I really don't know why they don't keep change. One thing for sure—a hold-up would net little. One time, when we ordered bread in a restaurant, a boy was sent to the bakery and the bread arrived hot. This is what I would call a quick turnover.

The delivery vehicles are changing from horse-drawn to van or in many cases a delivery cycle. One wheel behind like a bicycle and two in front with a wire bin. The ice man delivers ice this way. The milk man had a rig on the rear of the bicycle. His customers brought open pails and were served from cans.

At night life centers around the town square. The small fry play "fut-bal". Mothers bring their babies and promenade and sit on the numerous benches. Sometimes musicians are holding forth with Spanish music in competition with the nearby juke boxes. Reminds me of a miniature "Pumpkin Show."

Then there are all the "little merchants" peddling soft drinks, ice cream, fresh fruits and many other items from push carts and cycles. On Saturday night a boxing match is the big attraction. Ring-side seats are twelve pesos (ninety-six cents). The natives really go for this type of entertainment.

OFBF Backs Set-Aside

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Farm Bureau voted Wednesday to continue support of the set-aside acreage provisions of the current federal farm program.

Delegates to the group's 55th annual meeting urged the Agriculture Department to use the measure as a tool to keep farm prices above target levels.

The organization voiced opposition proposals for a strategic national and world food reserve. It passed a resolution saying the bureau fears stockpiles of farm commodities would depress domestic and world prices.

The organization also opposed use of wage and price controls to control inflation or distribution of commodities.

In other action, delegates reelected the following officers:

Leonard Schnell, Apple Creek, president; Glenn Irwin, Marysville, vice president; John Weir, Carrollton, treasurer; C. William Swank, Westerville, executive vice president; and Nedra Freitag, Columbus, assistant secretary. Glenn Pirtle of Worthington was elected vice president of field services.

Woodcock Wins Humanitarian Award

DETROIT (AP) — United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock was presented with the 1973 National B'nai B'rith Humanitarian Award at a $100-a-plate dinner.

Irwin Cohen, dinner chairman, said Woodcock was honored Wednesday for his civic and industrial leadership and for "remarkable contributions to American life and to the welfare of mankind."

Robbery Suspect Found In Box

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Police found a robbery suspect wearing a padded bra, dress, wig and earrings hiding in a large box in the basement of a suburban Clintonville home.

They later identified the person as Marshall James, 26, and charged him with armed robbery.

Another suspect dressed in similar fashion escaped with about $60 in cash and about $550 in jewelry, police said.

Buckingham Palace Heat To Be Slashed

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II has ordered heating in Buckingham Palace cut to the mid-60s as a royal contribution toward easing Britain's energy crisis.

The palace also announced Wednesday the royal family would travel by scheduled train services when possible. "Wherever economies can be made, they will be made," a palace spokesman said.

LIVESTOCK ON THE LOOSE—Pigs, horses and chickens run loose on village streets in Mexico. Pigs act as scavengers to a degree, cleaning up garbage when it can be found.

Miss Motague's third grade was awarded the teddy bear for the highest percentage of parents present. Mrs. Pentello's first grade had the lowest.

The PTO is sponsoring a Christmas appreciation dance, for the students of Scioto school, Dec 8, 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

Group Tries To Control Chessie RR

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Chessie System, Inc., has made public a forecast for a sharp increase in earnings in 1973 and says the anticipated increase apparently was the basis for an offer from a group of investors who tried to buy a controlling interest in the railroad.

A Chessie spokesman said Wednesday a forecast that earnings would reach $9.25 to $9.50 a share for the calendar year 1973 apparently leaked to "outsiders who have indicated a possibility of their desiring to acquire a controlling interest."

Chessie, a $2 billion holding company for the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Co. and Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Co., reported earnings of $6.92 a share in 1972. Earnings for the first nine months this year were reported at $6.46.

Hays T. Watkins, Chessie board chairman and chief executive officer, and John W. Hanifin, president, met with the investment group this week in New York and rejected their offer "unequivocally," the spokesman said.

Identity of the investors and details of their offer were not disclosed.

Trading in Chessie stock was halted on the New York Stock Exchange at 1:25 p.m. Wednesday.

Under the full disclosure rules of the Securities and Exchange Commission, any corporation interested in a takeover of Chessie would have to make its interest public. An SEC official said no such reports have been filed.

Curry Says License Fee Won't Increase

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Driver license fees will not be increased when Ohio's new photo-bearing license goes on sale Jan. 1, Motor Vehicles Registrar C. Donald Curry said Wednesday.

He said Ohioans will continue to pay $5 plus a 50-cent service charge for the licenses, contrary to what he said were erroneous reports that the fees will go up.

The regular meeting of the Scioto Township PTO was called to order by President Raymond Yeager, Nov. 12 at 7:30 p.m.

The invocation was given by the Rev. John Currens, of Scioto Chapel; followed by the pledge to the flag.

Sheri Hay reported on the Campbell Soup labels for education campaign. We have until Dec. 8 to get the labels turned in.

Jim Perry, chairman of the adult activities, would like for everyone to participate in this program. They meet at the school every Tuesday night at 7 p.m.

Pat Perry, Media Center aid, and Don Forquer showed a film used for the students from the Media Center. They explained about all the different services that are provided for the teachers and students.

Mrs. Jahnigan, the psychologist for the Pickaway County schools, gave a presentation of the service used in our school.

President Yeager thanked everyone that helped on the bond issue and the mothers who helped in the dental clinic last week.

Miss Motague's third grade was awarded the teddy bear for the highest percentage of parents present. Mrs. Pentello's first grade had the lowest.

The PTO is sponsoring a Christmas appreciation dance, for the students of Scioto school, Dec 8, 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

Group Tries To Control Chessie RR

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Chessie System, Inc., has made public a forecast for a sharp increase in earnings in 1973 and says the anticipated increase apparently was the basis for an offer from a group of investors who tried to buy a controlling interest in the railroad.

A Chessie spokesman said Wednesday a forecast that earnings would reach $9.25 to $9.50 a share for the calendar year 1973 apparently leaked to "outsiders who have indicated a possibility of their desiring to acquire a controlling interest."

Chessie, a $2 billion holding company for the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Co. and Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Co., reported earnings of $6.92 a share in 1972. Earnings for the first nine months this year were reported at $6.46.

Hays T. Watkins, Chessie board chairman and chief executive officer, and John W. Hanifin, president, met with the investment group this week in New York and rejected their offer "unequivocally," the spokesman said.

Identity of the investors and details of their offer were not disclosed.

Trading in Chessie stock was halted on the New York Stock Exchange at 1:25 p.m. Wednesday.

Under the full disclosure rules of the Securities and Exchange Commission, any corporation interested in a takeover of Chessie would have to make its interest public. An SEC official said no such reports have been filed.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

'Frame' Her Husband

DEAR ABBY: Tell that doctor's wife to move over! (When she complained to her husband that she felt sick, he told her to take two aspirin and go to bed.) I am the wife of a prominent attorney, and here is my story:

Nearly two years ago when we moved cross country, our car was involved in a serious accident, and most of my prized antiques were destroyed. Yes, they were insured, but we haven't collected because my husband hasn't had time to follow up on the claim.

Last summer our 6-year-old son was hospitalized for two weeks when his counselor at day camp slipped and spilled hot wax over 60 per cent of my son's body! (That was the last time they attempted to make candles at that camp.)

Although the camp admitted their liability, and provided us with all the necessary forms, we have not collected for the hospitalization, medication or plastic surgery because my husband simply hasn't gotten around to doing the legal work yet.

I have a scrapbook filled with newspaper articles written about my husband, but if you print this in your "Dear Abby" column, I will frame it, and hang it in the bathroom!

MAY DAY

DEAR MAY: It's practically framed. (And so's your old man.)

DEAR ABBY: I sure got a bang out of all those women who wrote that they were married to doctors, plumbers, carpenters and hairdressers, but when it came to performing services for their own families, they wouldn't do a thing.

I am married to a man who provides a personal service, but I sure won't want any of his professional services. At least not yet. He's mortician.

LOVES LIFE

DEAR ABBY: You are being unfair when you attribute group sex to animals! Some animals mate for life. Some are promiscuous, and some are polygamous, but if you know any that practice group sex in any form-from foursomes to the whole neighborhood, please name the breed or apologize for attributing human aberrations to the more normal furred and feathered creatures who cannot write to Dear Abby.

DEAR MR. LYONS: I apologize for insulting the animals. And in this connection, may I say that man is the only animal that blushes. Or needs to.

DEAR ABBY: Every time you print a letter about a dog barking, I get three copies of it in three separate envelopes all meticulously anonymous. They are obviously from the same person.

Since I don't know who the person is, but know he (or she) reads your column, I'd like that person to know that I ignore such gutless infantile tactics, and place anonymous poison pen letters on the same level with barking dogs.

BOWSER IN ALTADENA, CAL.

DEAR BOWSER: You are slightly more charitable than I. I place them lower.

Arab Leaders Maneuvering For Accord

ALGIERS (AP) — Leaders at the Arab summit conference have agreed on a resolution they hope will bring both the Palestinian guerrilla movement and Jordan to the proposed Arab-Israeli peace talks.

With Jordan abstaining, the resolution was approved by all the other leaders at a private meeting Tuesday night and was to be adopted formally today at the closing session of the Arab summit meeting.

The resolution was proposed by Mahmoud Riad, secretary-general of the Arab League. He said it reaffirmed that Yasir Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization represents all Palestinian Arabs, including those living in Jordan. But the resolution did not explicitly repudiate Jordan's claim to sovereignty over Arab Jerusalem and the west bank of the Jordan River, both populated by Palestinian Arabs. Jordan captured the two territories in the 1948 Palestine War and Israel conquered them in 1967.

A Palestinian spokesman described the resolution as a "victory" but refused to indicate whether it would be enough to bring Arafat to the peace talks expected to open in Geneva on Dec. 18.

Reports from Amman said King Hussein, who stayed away from the Algiers meeting to avoid a personal confrontation with Arafat, told the American and Soviet ambassadors there Tuesday he would boycott the Geneva conference if Arafat appeared there as head of the Palestinian government-in-exile he has been reported threatening to proclaim.

Arafat, meanwhile, has not gone ahead with the government-in-exile move, and the leaders in Algiers hoped that this coupled with the conference resolution made it possible for Hussein to accept Arafat in Geneva. Conference sources pointed out that the resolution did no more than restate the position of the Arab League, which has recognized Arafat as spokesman for the Palestinians for the past six years.

The Arab leaders decided to hold off the next 5 per cent reduction in shipments of Arab oil to Japan and the Philippines for one month in recognition of statements by both countries favorable to the Arab position. The same concession had already been made for countries of the European Common Market—except the Netherlands—in appreciation of a similar proArab statement.

Nixon 'Get Well' Card For Peron

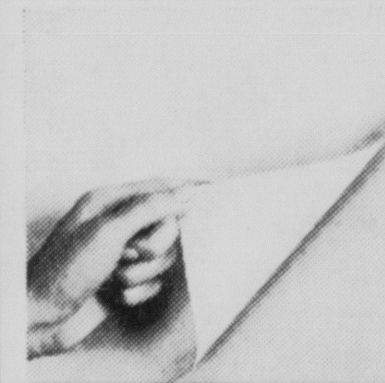

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — President Nixon has expressed his wish for a "quick and complete" recovery to Argentine President Juan Peron, stricken last week with what doctors diagnosed as bronchitis.

"Your illness has caused me profound preoccupation," Nixon said in a message distributed in Spanish. "I hope that this message will find you feeling better. I hope your recovery will be quick and complete."

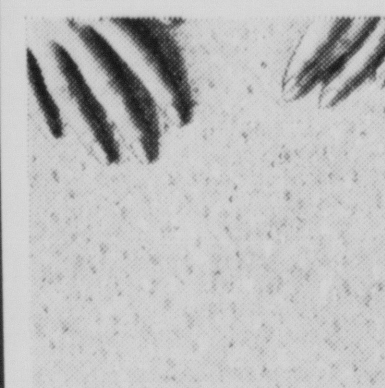

The 78-year-old Peron planned to address the U. N. General Assembly during the first week of December but his illness has cast uncertainty on those plans. There also were tentative plans for a meeting between Peron and Nixon in New York, sources said.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

'Frame' Her Husband

DEAR ABBY: Tell that doctor's wife to move over! (When she complained to her husband that she felt sick, he told her to take two aspirin and go to bed.) I am the wife of a prominent attorney, and here is my story:

Nearly two years ago when we moved cross country, our car was involved in a serious accident, and most of my prized antiques were destroyed. Yes, they were insured, but we haven't collected because my husband hasn't had time to follow up on the claim.

Last summer our 6-year-old son was hospitalized for two weeks when his counselor at day camp slipped and spilled hot wax over 60 per cent of my son's body! (That was the last time they attempted to make candles at that camp.)

Although the camp admitted their liability, and provided us with all the necessary forms, we have not collected for the hospitalization, medication or plastic surgery because my husband simply hasn't gotten around to doing the legal work yet.

I have a scrapbook filled with newspaper articles written about my husband, but if you print this in your "Dear Abby" column, I will frame it, and hang it in the bathroom!

MAYDAY
DEAR MAY: It's practically framed. (And so's your old man.)

DEAR ABBY: I sure got a bang out of all those women who wrote that they were married to doctors, plumbers, carpenters and hairdressers, but when it came to performing services for their own families, they wouldn't do a thing.

I am married to a man who provides a personal service, but I sure won't want any of his professional services. At least not yet. He's mortician.

LOVES LIFE
DEAR ABBY: You are being unfair when you attribute group sex to animals! Some animals mate for life. Some are promiscuous, and some are polygamous, but if you know any that practice group sex in any form-from foursomes to the whole neighborhood, please name the breed or apologize for attributing human aberrations to the more normal furred and feathered creatures who cannot write to Dear Abby.

DEAR MR. LYONS: I apologize for insulting the animals. And in this connection, may I say that man is the only animal that blushes. Or needs to.

DEAR ABBY: Every time you print a letter about a dog barking, I get three copies of it in three separate envelopes all meticulously anonymous. They are obviously from the same person.

Since I don't know who the person is, but know he (or she) reads your column, I'd like that person to know that I ignore such gutless infantile tactics, and place anonymous poison pen letters on the same level with barking dogs.

Arab Leaders Maneuvering For Accord

ALGIERS (AP) — Leaders at the Arab summit conference have agreed on a resolution they hope will bring both the Palestinian guerrilla movement and Jordan to the proposed Arab-Israeli peace talks.

With Jordan abstaining, the resolution was approved by all the other leaders at a private meeting Tuesday night and was to be adopted formally today at the closing session of the Arab summit meeting.

The resolution was proposed by Mahmoud Riad, secretary-general of the Arab League. He said it reaffirmed that Yasir Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization represents all Palestinian Arabs, including those living in Jordan. But the resolution did not explicitly repudiate Jordan's claim to sovereignty over Arab Jerusalem and the west bank of the Jordan River, both populated by Palestinian Arabs. Jordan captured the two territories in the 1948 Palestine War and Israel conquered them in 1967.

A Palestinian spokesman described the resolution as a "victory" but refused to indicate whether it would be enough to bring Arafat to the peace talks expected to open in Geneva on Dec. 18.

Reports from Amman said King Hussein, who stayed away from the Algiers meeting to avoid a personal confrontation with Arafat, told the American and Soviet ambassadors there Tuesday he would boycott the Geneva conference if Arafat appeared there as head of the Palestinian government-in-exile he has been reported threatening to proclaim.

Arafat, meanwhile, has not gone ahead with the government-in-exile move, and the leaders in Algiers hoped that this coupled with the conference resolution made it possible for Hussein to accept Arafat in Geneva. Conference sources pointed out that the resolution did no more than restate the position of the Arab League, which has recognized Arafat as spokesman for the Palestinians for the past six years.

The Arab leaders decided to hold off the next 5 per cent reduction in shipments of Arab oil to Japan and the Philippines for one month in recognition of statements by both countries favorable to the Arab position. The same concession had already been made for countries of the European Common Market—except the Netherlands—in appreciation of a similar proArab statement.

Nixon 'Get Well' Card For Peron

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — President Nixon has expressed his wish for a "quick and complete" recovery to Argentine President Juan Peron, stricken last week with what doctors diagnosed as bronchitis.

"Your illness has caused me profound preoccupation," Nixon said in a message distributed in Spanish. "I hope that this message will find you feeling better. I hope your recovery will be quick and complete."

The 78-year-old Peron planned to address the U. N. General Assembly during the first week of December but his illness has cast uncertainty on those plans. There also were tentative plans for a meeting between Peron and Nixon in New York, sources said.

Police Being Trained In New Code

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati's 900-member police force is going back to school to learn Ohio's new criminal code at an estimated cost of $500,000.

The Cincinnati Police Academy is conducting classes around the clock so officers may attend during normal work shifts.

The criminal code becomes law Jan. 1, 1974. It requires all certified policemen in Ohio to receive 40 hours of training on new criminal law by Jan. 1, 1965.

Hamilton County Sheriff Paul Fricker estimates he will spend $50,000 to train 230 men in his department on the new code. He set up four schools around the county. An estimated 2,000 other officers from 38 police departments in the county will also take training at the sheriff schools.

The departments will be billed for that training, Fricker said.

Cincinnati Police Chief Carl Goodin wants his staff trained in the code from the start.

"Otherwise we'd run the risk of losing state certification of individual policemen," he said.

Goodin said cases could be lost in court if defense lawyers contend arresting officers are not trained in the new law.

"It's kind of silly, isn't it," Goodin said, "that the law gives individual departments a year to complete the training after the law is already on the books."

I believe we'll be the first to complete the training in the state."

He estimated the cost of the training at about $500,000, counting overtime and lost time from work.

"I don't know if we really need the 40 hours to cover the material," said Fricker, "but we'll know it and I think, for awhile, we'll be ahead of the defense lawyers."

Clerks from the Clerk of Courts office and assistant prosecutors also are going back to school.

The University of Cincinnati College of Law, has no immediate plans for

Muskingum County To Build New Jail

ZANESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Even though Muskingum County will be without a jail after Dec. 6, prisoners will still have a place to go.

The Muskingum County Sheriff has made arrangements with Guernsey and Coshocton counties to house prisoners while a new jail is being constructed.

The 100-year-old jail will be replaced with a $1.5 million structure on the same location. Completion is expected late next year.

instructing practicing lawyers in the new code.

Tom Murphy, the assistant dean, said most lawyers are up on the new law anyway. In addition, there are several legal groups touring the state with experts conducting seminars for lawyers.

The new code changes everything, said Lt. Charles Eaton, an instructor at the Cincinnati Police Academy.

"Each man has a 3½ pound book and nothing is the same under the new codes."

The new code breaks down all crime

Receives Award For Channelization

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state of Ohio has received the Golden Mallard Award for intervening in a federal suit to block channelization of the Cache River in Arkansas.

The Arkansas Wildlife Federation, Inc., presented the award, the Ohio Department of Natural Resources said.

The suit is pending in court.

Grange News

SALTREEK VALLEY GRANGE
Saltcreek Valley Grange members enjoyed a slide presentation to Disney World given by Jo Ann Brink of Knight Travel Service.
This was a portion of her talk to the grangers concerning travel in America and the services available through the local travel office.
Donations were given to the Ohio State Grange Youth and to the National Grange Youth Fund and also to the Pickaway County Grange Youth.
Members were reminded of the county-wide Grange Flea Market and Bake Sale Dec. 1 at the 4-H and Grange Building on the fairgrounds.
The lecturer reported on the annual Pomona Banquet and informed the Grange of upcoming dates and projects.
Male members of Saltcreek Grange will be assisting at the Banquet Dec. 1 both as hosts and part of the entertainment.
The annual Christmas dinner and program will be held at the home of Orley and Alvena Judy Dec. 4 beginning with the cooperative meal at 6:30 p.m.
Refreshments were served to the 18 members and two guests by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Dean and Randolph Wolfe.

Wildlife Planting Stock Available

Trees and shrubs for wildlife food and cover are available from the Division of Wildlife, Ohio Department of Natural Resources. Interested farmers and other rural landowners should contact their local game protector by February 1, 1974 to apply for wildlife habitat planting stock.
A shortage of food and a lack of well distributed cover make the winter and spring a critical period of year for wildlife. Supplemental plantings of desirable wildlife habitat are important to the maintenance of existing wildlife populations.
Farmers and landowners with 30 or more acres, who permit some hunting on their land, are eligible to receive planting stock. Planning services and several publications on wildlife food and cover plantings are also available.
Several varieties of trees and shrubs including white pine, autumn olive and multiflora rose may be obtained from the Division of Wildlife. Anyone desiring to receive the planting stock, be sure to contact your local state game protector or the Wildlife District One Office, 1500 Dublin Road, Columbus, Ohio 43215, phone 466-3337. Application period ends February 1, 1974.
The earliest species of tree still surviving is the maiden-hair tree of China, which first appeared 160 million years ago.

tie against Michigan last Saturday, but the Buckeyes came out a slim 2-0 victor a day later over archrival Miami (Ohio).
Archival? Miami?
It all happened Sunday morning in the comic strip "Steve Canyon" when "Maumee University" dropkicker Oley botched a last-minute field goal attempt against "Scioto State."
Ohio State, alma mater of "Canyon" artist Milton A. Caniff, lies a few miles from the Scioto River. The Maumee River is in northern Ohio, while Miami is in the south—but Caniff admits the school served as Maumee's model.
"Miami University was the genesis of it," he said by telephone from his Palm Springs, Calif., studio. "It was the first campus I'd ever seen—a beautiful campus."
He located it along the Maumee River because "I just picked a hole where there is no college and put Maumee there," he said.
"What happens is that something triggers a recollection. Then it becomes a compilation of a lot of things," he said.
"I had a deep impression of Miami. It was the most 'college' college, old ivy buildings, a real feel of tradition on that campus. It seemed to be what every college should look like."
Caniff, who was born in Hillsboro, Ohio, in 1907, recalls Ohio regularly in the strip.
"High City," the metropolis where Poteet Canyon works as a journalist, was modeled on Dayton. Her newspaper is based on the Dayton Journal-Herald, where Caniff once worked.
Sometimes real people pop up in the strip, too. A plump, goateed photographer in a Canyon adventure earlier this year was loosely drawn from Caniff's recollection of Julian Wilson, an Associated Press photographer based in Cleveland.
The annual Scioto State-Maumee gridiron struggle is influenced by the football fan in Caniff. That came from Ohio, too, he said.
"God, yes," he said. "I was brought up on it like everyone else there. And once you're inoculated, you never get over it, I guess."
His character Oley made his first gridiron appearance last year, in a season that concluded with the strip's snowy recreation of the "Blizzard Bowl"—a real arctic match Ohio State and Michigan played back in the 1950s.
Maumee frustrated Scioto State's hopes in that game when Oley booted a miracle field goal in the closing seconds—After his friends held up flares in the end zone to mark the goal posts through the snowstorm.
This year, Oley held out most of the season, arguing that he was too frightened of being crushed by charging linemen to play football. He showed up in uniform for the Scioto State game, of course, but all was for naught.
Scioto State fans set off a blinding array of fireworks behind the goal just as the ball was snapped, and Oley's final-seconds field goal attempt went awry.
Next fall...well, Caniff isn't sure.

Findlay Police Chief Appeals Suspension

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — A two-day suspension was not enough to keep Police Chief Morris Frankhouser off the job Wednesday.
Frankhouser reported for work while appealing the suspension by Mayor John Sausser. The squabble between the two arose over who has authority to call the fire department's ambulance in an emergency.

"Oley's a senior this year, but he's only used up two years of eligibility," he noted. "Of course, there's this business of him being afraid—but a lot of people feel that way."

"I'll have to keep that eligibility thing in mind," he said. "But I don't know. I haven't decided anything yet."

All-Mac Football Stars Named By Coaches

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Bowling Green tailback Paul Miles, the greatest Mid-American rusher in history, leads the coaches' all-conference football team. Miles, a 6-foot, 190-pound senior from Paulding, Ohio, piled up 3,239 career yards and landed a spot on the all-league first team for the third consecutive season.

The head coaches of the six members eligible for the title selected 13 for the offense and 11 for the defense, five of the players first team holdovers from last fall's first unit. Besides Miles, making the dream team for a second straight year were Kent State tight end Gary Pinkel, line-backers Dom Riggio of Western Michigan and Jack Lambert of Kent State and Miami deep back Dan Rebsch.

Champion Miami, which rolled through the season with 10 straight victories, placed seven players on the first units, one less than runnerup Kent State.

In addition to Rebsch, Redskins honored were center Dan Cunningham, offensive tackle Mike Biehle, defensive ends Bill Blind and Herman Jackson, middle guard Brad Cousino and linebacker Mike Monos.

Joining Lambert and Pinkel on the first team from Kent were wide receiver Gerald Tinker, quarterback Greg Kokal, running back Larry Poole, defensive tackles Larry Faulk and Walt Vrabel and deep back Bernard Harmon.

Miami, which will face Florida in the Tangerine Bowl Dec. 22, also landed five players on the second team while Kent State came up with three on the No. 2 units.

Although the coaches did not select kicking specialists, they did recognize Miami place kicker Dave Draudt and Ohio punter Mike Green.

Draudt, a sophomore from Middletown, Ohio, led the conference scorers with 62 points, including a league record 14 field goals. Green, an Athens, Ohio, sophomore, averaged 41.5 yards on 62 punts.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The 1973 coaches' Mid-American Conference football selections:

College Basketball Loops Open

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The 1973-74 college basketball season opens with a bang Friday night as seven of the country's ranked teams start shooting — including those old smoothies, the UCLA Bruins.

The Bruins and their fabulous 75-game winning streak open at home against Arkansas and hope to keep rolling Saturday night against fourth-ranked Maryland.

Along with the national champions, who have won the NCAA title seven years in a row and nine times out of the last ten seasons, No. 11 San Francisco, No. 15 Arizona, No. 16 Penn. No. 17 Jacksonville, No. 18 Alabama and No. 20 Memphis State open their seasons.

San Francisco, favored to repeat as champions in the West Coast Athletic Conference, hosts San Diego University.

Arizona, one of the favorites in the Western Athletic Conference, entertains Illinois.

Penn. the choice of the Ivy league, meets New Hampshire in a doubleheader at Philadelphia's Palestra.

Jacksonville, a strong independent from Florida, plays St. John's, N.Y., in a tournament at Clemson, S.C.

Alabama, one of the class teams in the Southeastern Conference, travels to Georgia Tech.

Memphis State, last year's NCAA finalist against UCLA who dropped out of the Missouri Valley Conference this season, takes on Missouri-Rolla at home.

The most glamorous name in the field, of course, is UCLA — a team that has been described as "inhuman" by some.

"Sometimes I don't think they're human," says Maryland Coach Lefty Driesell.

But he's nevertheless looking forward to opening against the nation's No. 1 team, even if it's at the Bruins' cozy Pauley Pavilion. "You don't get an opportunity like this very often," said Driesell. "If we could break their streak, the consequences would be greater than if we won the national championship. It would be remembered longer."

Some other choice games around the country Friday night match St. Joseph's, Pa., against Army in the other game of that Palestra twin bill; Auburn vs. Clemson in the tourney with Jacksonville; Hofstra at Florida State; Texas-Arlington at Ohio State; North Texas at Tennessee; Wake Forest at Rice and South Alabama at Hawaii.

Taylor Team Ready

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Fred Taylor opens his 16th Ohio State basketball coaching season with what he terms a more cohesive unit against visiting Texas-Arlington Friday night.

Led by three-year regulars Allan Hornyak and Luke Witte, the Buckeyes were a disappointment last season. They finished with a 14-10 record and 8-6 in the Big Ten.

"We weren't even thinking as a unit, much less playing as one last year," said Taylor, who has a 268-109 record at his alma mater. "Now we're cohesive," he continued. "People know they're going to get the ball if they're open this year. We're running better."

Even with Hornyak and Witte departed, the Buckeyes throw a veteran club against Texas-Arlington in the first meeting ever between the schools.

The Ohio State regulars, 6-7 Wardell Jackson and 6-6 Jack Wolfe at forwards, 6-10 Craig Taylor or 6-7 Bill Andreas at center and 6-3 Dan Gerhard and 6-3 Gary Repella at guards, all started some last winter.

One freshman, 6-foot all-stater Larry Bolden from Cleveland, is close to cracking the starting lineup. He will play early against the Mavericks. Texas-Arlington finished with a 13-13 record a year ago after picking up two forfeits from Southwestern Louisiana. But only one starter, 6-foot guard Ronnie Marsh, returns from that team.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Bowling Green tailback Paul Miles, the greatest Mid-American rusher in history, leads the coaches' all-conference football team.

Miles, a 6-foot, 190-pound senior from Paulding, Ohio, piled up 3,239 career yards and landed a spot on the all-league first team for the third consecutive season.

The head coaches of the six members eligible for the title selected 13 for the offense and 11 for the defense, five of the players first team holdovers from last fall's first unit.

Besides Miles, making the dream team for a second straight year were Kent State tight end Gary Pinkel, linebackers Dom Riggio of Western Michigan and Jack Lambert of Kent State and Miami deep back Dan Rebsch.
